Thwarted In Thursday's Scheduled Launch

Astronauts Eye Saturday In Bid For Space History

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Thwarted by last minute equipment troubles and the boiling black of a thunderstorm, two American astronauts smiled their way out of disappointment and aimed for Saturday in their bid for space history.

They turned today to the preflight routine they had stepped through so hopefully only two days ago — mission review meetings, more flight rehearsal and early-to- bed tonight.

After postponement Thursday of their eight-day, Gemini 5 space stint, astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. got a short recess.

"We gave them the afternoon off and I don't know what they're doing," said astronaut coordinator Donald K. Slayton.

The astronauts were "fairly disappointed," he said, but they didn't "get clanked up about it or anything like that."

Indeed, after more than two hours of futile waiting in the cramped cabin, both emerged smiling and sharing the kind jokes of technicians and space flight comrades.

During the long wait, pilot Conrad — with an eye on the storm — asked for permission to turn on nonexistent windshield wipers.

On the word of postponement, command pilot Cooper said, "Aw, gee, you promised us a launch and not a wet mock" (simulated mission).

It was to be man's longest voyage in space — nearly 192 hours and covering 3.12 million miles.

But it seemed burdened with trouble from the beginning.

A difficulty in hydrogen tankage for a new electrical power system cropped up days ago; then there were new difficulties on the night before launch when engineers tried to cram extra pounds of the valuable deep-frozen fuel into the spherical tanks.

That caused a 3 hour and 18 minute hold in the countdown. When it was solved, things rolled along smoothly until 10 minutes before the nine-story Titan 2 rocket was due to blast the capsule into orbit.

At 12:08 p.m. (EST) space officials announced they were holding again. This time the trouble was in the telemetry. A switch seemed at first glance to be operating poorly, but on subsequent checks everything went all right. Still, what caused that one transient failure? Was the system really all right? Without it, much of the coded data from the spacecraft would never be radioed to earth. The switch would have to be checked out. The hold continued.

A long black line of thunderheads closed in on Cape Kennedy. Oddly, they seemed lightest over that one small area — launch pad 19 with its waiting rocket.

But by then, lightning was striking with greater frequency.

Then came a new problem — "The straw that broke the camel's back," said G. Merritt Preston, deputy director of the Kennedy Space Center. Lightning traveling by some unknown route — by ground or cable or otherwise — surged into the power lines of the launch complex. In a complicated system that depends on controlled electricity, it struck a vulnerable spot — the memory of a spacecraft computer.

Was the memory of the computer damaged? It would take hours to check, even longer hours to repair. Flight officials were fairly certain it was adequately protected by a current barrier but they could not take the chance.

House OKs Farm Bill In Hot Debate

Sweeping 4-Year Measure Due More Conflict In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a sweeping four-year farm bill after stormy debate. Now the measure heads for more conflict in the Senate.

Cost of the four years of government-authorized supports have been estimated at between $16 billion and $18 billion.

Key farm-state senators already have announced strong opposition to the omnibus bill that was approved, 221 to 172, by the House Thursday night after three days of argument.

The measure, one of the most comprehensive farm bills ever handled by Congress, deals with what one member described as "everything eatable, wearable and smokeable." Its production-control and price-support sections include programs for wheat, feed grains, cotton, wool and dairying.

In addition to continuing existing programs on feed grains and a wide range of other crops, the bill would make major changes in cotton and wheat programs, set up a new dairy program, and authorize a long-range land-retirement program aimed at taking 40 million acres out of the production of crops now under government regulation.

The administration suffered one setback after another as the legislation went through the Agriculture Committee. Finally, it had to accept major changes in the wheat and cotton sections on the eve of the opening of House debate.

Backers say the various programs in the bill have the general aim of maintaining and increasing farm income and seeking to balance supply and demand.

Fire Drawn From Reds In Tunnels

Over 600 Viet Cong Killed; Wounded Figured At 1,000

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Marnes drew Viet Cong fire from tunnels and fortifications today as they swept back across the Van Tuong Peninsula after the biggest American battle of the Vietnamese war.

A U.S. military spokesman said Communist guerrillas opened up on the Marines with sporadic small arms fire as the Americans continued mop-up operations on the peninsula 12 miles south of Chu Lai.

The area was the stronghold of the 1st Viet Cong regiment, "one of the toughest," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said 563 Viet Cong bodies had been counted. The Marines estimated that more than 600 of the enemy were killed and more than 1,000 wounded in the battle that began with an amphibious and helicopter assault Wednesday.

The spokesman said 52 guerrillas were captured and 64 suspects were held.

One Marine intelligence officer estimated that 1,200 Viet Cong had been in the combat zone and another 800 in the general area.

Casualties among the several thousand Americans involved were light, Marine officials said. But a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon said the Americans had suffered their heaviest losses of any single engagement of the war. Security rules forbid disclosure of U.S. casualties in specific battles.

"The Viet Cong who survived pushed out to sea or infiltrated around and through positions in the rear," said Marine Maj. E. W. Snyder of Oceanside, Calif.

Meanwhile, Henry Cabot Lodge arrived in Saigon to start his second tour of duty as U.S. ambassador. He told newsmen the United States "is both united and persistent in confirming its belief that the current aggression against Viet Nam must and will be warded off."

"The fight which our military men — Vietnamese, American and allied alike — are making to this end gives us all the opportunity to help bring about a true revolution which will make possible a new and better life for the Vietnamese people," the ambassador said.

Los Angeles Peaceful

Damages, Cause Of Riots Studied

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Political sniping had replaced riot, arson and looting today as leaders hurried to assess damage and ferret out the cause of week-long violence in which 34 persons died.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown — after announcing formation of an eight-member panel to probe causes of the massive riot — made a quick trip to the fringe of the now peaceful but devastated Watts area Thursday night.

Discussing the panel, Brown said:

"The commission will be provided with subpoena power in order to make absolutely sure that all of us have access to the whole truth. No group of Californians ever chosen for an official responsibility can have undertaken a more difficult or significant assignment than the members of this commission."

Brown appointed John A. McCone, 63, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, to head the commission.

McCone, who flew in from Washington, said "every American citizen feels deeply distressed over what has happened and wonders why it should have happened in Los Angeles. We will have to remedy this situation, of course."

After the tour Brown returned to Sacramento.

Earlier, Mayor Samuel W. Yorty attacked Brown's plan for an inquiry committee, saying the panel won't do any good. He added:

"The governor just wants to see how much political hay he can make out of the situation."

Yorty had just emerged from a meeting with Police Chief William H. Parker and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. He told a news conference he disagreed with King's allegations of police brutality as the cause of the riot.

Parker told newsmen he does not intend to follow King's suggestion that he resign, but he said he thought the discussion with the civil rights leader was helpful.

King said he told the mayor in Parker's presence that "there is a strong feeling in the Negro community that Parker should be removed."

Also demanding Parker's resignation were 35 pickets from the Congress of Racial Equality, who paraded briefly with signs at city hall.

Otherwise, peace and quiet continued in the 46-square-mile riot area of south Los Angeles, where 3,000 National Guard troops remained on duty.

Senate Okays $1.65 Billion Poverty Fund

GOP Puts Up Hard Fight; Measure's Sent To House Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a bill providing sharply increased funds for the second year of what President Johnson calls his "war on poverty."

After four days of debate, the Senate cleared the $1.65-billion measure Thursday night on a 61-29 vote. Republicans put up a fiercer fight against it than they had this year against any other legislation bearing Johnson's Great Society label.

The measure was sent to conference with the House which passed a bigger authorization — $1.9 billion — by a 245-158 vote July 22.

Sponsors of the legislation said they anticipate no problem in reaching an agreement somewhere between the two figures.

Once a final decision on the authorization is reached, Congress will have to provide cash for the second year of the program in a separate money bill which may not exceed the authorized figure. In 1964, Congress voted $793 million for the initial year.

U.S. Official Presses For Steel Accord

PITTSBURGH (AP) — William E. Simkin, the nation's top labor mediator, was working behind the scenes today in an effort to effect a steel contract settlement.

Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, told a news conference Thursday: "I would not characterize the negotiations as deadlocked."

He expressed optimism that a nationwide steel strike can be avoided.

The United Steelworkers union has threatened to strike Sept. 1 in the absence of a new contract with 10 basic steel companies.

Simkin arrived in Pittsburgh Wednesday night, unannounced and "on my own initiative." He has conferred with R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, and I. W. Abel, president of the Steelworkers.

Ex-President Also Supports U.N. Dues Step

White House Praises Ike In Backing Of Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — While House Republicans sought to build an issue around the origins of U.S. policy in Viet Nam, the White House today termed eloquent former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's words of support for President Johnson.

And Republican Eisenhower had a bonus for the Democratic administration: Backing for its decision to drop the fight for payment of overdue United Nations' peacekeeping assessments by the Soviet Union and 12 other nations.

House Republicans met privately with Eisenhower Tuesday and came away encouraged about their plans to challenge the Democrats on the origins of the U.S. commitment in South Viet Nam and on United Nations financing.

But when party finance chieftains gathered at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm Thursday, Eisenhower labeled "rot" reports of differences between him and Johnson on the U.S. stand in Viet Nam — and added he now has been convinced the U.N. financing decision was the right one.

"President Eisenhower's words speak eloquently for themselves," said assistant White House press secretary Joseph Laitin.

Outside a green and white, air conditioned meeting tent in Gettysburg, Eisenhower told House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan he is squarely behind Johnson's Viet Nam policy.

"I've done everything I can to show that I am behind him," Eisenhower said.

"I never said that Gen. Eisenhower wasn't supporting the President in regard to Viet Nam," Ford said later.

The Michigan congressman said House Republicans will go ahead with their plan to issue a white paper on the origins of the U.S. military commitment in Viet Nam.

Ford said he will discuss the paper with Eisenhower before it is made public.

Eisenhower said Tuesday he originally approved only economic aid for South Viet Nam. He did not deny that his administration later sent military men there to serve as advisers.

"Circumstances today are far different from 10 years ago," he told a news conference in Gettysburg Thursday.

At that time, he said, economic aid was all that seemed necessary.

"I stated flatly that we would support this little country," Eisenhower added. "The problem has grown in intensity."

Johnson, Ford said, "is always saying he is carrying out the commitments made by three presidents."

Two Face Hearing Today

Cape Security Tightened As Pennsylvanians Slip In

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Security at Cape Kennedy, spectacularly breached by two young Pennsylvania tourists who slipped dangerously close to the Titan 2 rocket, is being tightened.

Within an hour after the young men were spotted by automatic television cameras scanning the plametto scrubs from the Titan bunker, security officers all over the space center redoubled their checks.

Before the Gemini 5 launch was called off at 12:45 p.m. Thursday, four more persons who swam the harbor channel to the cape were quickly stopped and hustled away. They were released after questioning.

But the two tourists — whose excursions along the dunes were televised nationally — were questioned for four hours and turned over to the FBI.

The two — identified as Gary Ralph Young, 22, and Theodore Lee Ballinger, 17, both of State College Pa. — were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Tom Henderson at Titusville on charges of trespassing on government property.

Henderson released them overnight, pending a hearing today.

Security police, FBI and Air Force spokesmen said the pair was on a lark, hoping to watch the launch close up.

"But they were warned — by signs, a fence and a guard who told them they could not enter," the Air Force spokesman said. "They slipped by the guard later in the dark of night."

It'll Be Cool Tonight And Mild On Saturday

Things can change in a hurry where the weather's concerned.

Heard this morning: "It's a little cool out there."

Regardless of your personal preference, the forecast says it will be clear and cool again tonight and cloudy and mild Saturday.

Trio Injured In Auto Crash On W. 8th St.

Three men were injured in a two-car collision about noon today on W. 8th St. near the foot of Lisbon St., police reported.

The three were in the emergency room at City Hospital, but none had been identified nearly a half hour after the collision. Hospital attendants said none appeared to be in serious condition.

Witnesses said the collision involved an auto headed west on the four-lane stretch and another that descended the Lisbon St. Hill. The two streets intersect at a point just west of the overpass over the four-lane stretch.

Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi said the report of the crash was received at headquarters at noon. Two wreckers and two ambulances were dispatched.

"The report said three or four injured people were lying on the pavement," the chief said. "They are on their way to the hospital."

Patrolmen Paul A. Burson, William A. Devon and Charles A. Winters were dispatched to investigate.

Witnesses said the crash caused heavy damage to the front of one auto and the left side of the other.

Manry Says Ship Nearly Hit His Boat

FALMOUTH, England (AP)—A Russian freighter nearly ran down Robert Manry's 13½-foot sailboat Tinkerbelle during his long transatlantic voyage, the Cleveland newsman said Thursday.

"This thing came at me when I was probably around 500 miles short of England and it's the most dangerous thing that happened," Manry said.

He said his tiny boat managed to survive the wash of the ship but he never got a hail from it or any acknowledgement that anyone aboard had seen him.

The ship was about 10,000 tons, he said, and had a sign on it which looked like "Shou" and then the word "Neptun."

"The flag was the hammer and sickle."

A check of Lloyd's Register of Shipping shows a small coastwise Soviet ship "Neptun" of 202 tons, but nothing similar to "Shou" was listed.

Cites Domestic, Not Viet As Reason

Nixon Predicts Johnson Will Be Beaten In 1968

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon predicts that in 1968 President Johnson "is going to be defeated by what happens domestically and not what happens in Viet Nam."

The former vice president was one of the top GOP leaders at a Republican National Finance Committee rally on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's farm here Thursday.

Nixon said in an interview he is confident Johnson can be beaten by a Republican three years from now.

"The very things Johnson is being praised so highly for now are going to become his failures in time," Nixon said. "These programs he is pushing hold out a lot of promises. But when they are not fulfilled — and a great many of them won't be — the reaction will set in."

He was asked specifically if Republicans were depending upon any disastrous developments in Viet Nam to undermine Johnson's political base.

"Not at all," Nixon said. "He is going to be defeated by what happens domestically and not by what happens in Viet Nam."

Nixon joined Eisenhower in support of Johnson's course of restrained escalation of the Viet Nam conflict. But he said that he opposes any concessions to the Communists, in efforts to end the war, which would neutralize South Viet Nam's government, involve a coalition regime which might open the way to Communist control, or cause the loss to Saigon of "one foot of territory."

Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, turned aside questions as to whether he is competing for the 1968 nomination to oppose Johnson's expected bid for re-election. But there was not much doubt in the minds of Republicans who watched his handshaking progress among their ranks that he is available.

Man, 54, Dies When Struck In Hopewell

A 54-year-old McKeesport man became Beaver County's ninth pedestrian traffic death and the 23rd motor vehicle fatality to date when he was pronounced dead on arrival at Rochester General Hospital as a result of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car on the Monaca-Aliquippa Blvd. in Hopewell Township Thursday at 10:40 p.m.

County Coroner John W. Colavincenzo said Samuel Truesdell of 205 Sunset Dr., McKeesport, died instantly as the result of a crushed chest and multiple fractures of the legs and body.

Hopewell Township Police Chief Joseph Unis said Truesdell, an electrical contractor for the Kobuta plant of the Kopper-Sinclair Co. in Potter Township, was struck by a car operated by Robert Toph, 26, of Stone Quarry Rd., Center Township.

Toph told police he was traveling north in the right lane of the three - lane highway when he came upon a man standing in the middle of the road with his arms stretched out as if trying to stop traffic and couldn't avoid hitting him.

The two — identified as Gary Ralph Young, 22, and Theodore Lee Ballinger, 17, both of State College Pa. — were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Tom Henderson at Titusville on charges of trespassing on government property.

Henderson released them overnight, pending a hearing today.

Security police, FBI and Air Force spokesmen said the pair was on a lark, hoping to watch the launch close up.

"But they were warned — by signs, a fence and a guard who told them they could not enter," the Air Force spokesman said. "They slipped by the guard later in the dark of night."

It'll Be Cool Tonight And Mild On Saturday

Things can change in a hurry where the weather's concerned.

Heard this morning: "It's a little cool out there."

Cool it was, but after the last few days the comment seemed to be preferred to "The heat's killing me!"

Regardless of your personal preference, the forecast says it will be clear and cool again tonight and cloudy and mild Saturday.

Trio Injured In Auto Crash On W. 8th St.

Three men were injured in a two-car collision about noon today on W. 8th St. near the foot of Lisbon St., police reported.

The three were in the emergency room at City Hospital, but none had been identified nearly a half hour after the collision. Hospital attendants said none appeared to be in serious condition.

Witnesses said the collision involved an auto headed west on the four-lane stretch and another that descended the Lisbon St. Hill. The two streets intersect at a point just west of the overpass over the four-lane stretch.

Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi said the report of the crash was received at headquarters at noon. Two wreckers and two ambulances were dispatched.

"The report said three or four injured people were lying on the pavement," the chief said. "They are on their way to the hospital."

Patrolmen Paul A. Burson, William A. Devon and Charles A. Winters were dispatched to investigate.

Witnesses said the crash caused heavy damage to the front of one auto and the left side of the other.

Manry Says Ship Nearly Hit His Boat

FALMOUTH, England (AP)—A Russian freighter nearly ran down Robert Manry's 13½-foot sailboat Tinkerbelle during his long transatlantic voyage, the Cleveland newsman said Thursday.

"This thing came at me when I was probably around 500 miles short of England and it's the most dangerous thing that happened," Manry said.

He said his tiny boat managed to survive the wash of the ship but he never got a hail from it or any acknowledgement that anyone aboard had seen him.

The ship was about 10,000 tons, he said, and had a sign on it which looked like "Shou" and then the word "Neptun."

"The flag was the hammer and sickle."

A check of Lloyd's Register of Shipping shows a small coastwise Soviet ship "Neptun" of 202 tons, but nothing similar to "Shou" was listed.

Cites Domestic, Not Viet As Reason

Nixon Predicts Johnson Will Be Beaten In 1968

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon predicts that in 1968 President Johnson "is going to be defeated by what happens domestically and not what happens in Viet Nam."

The former vice president was one of the top GOP leaders at a Republican National Finance Committee rally on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's farm here Thursday.

Nixon said in an interview he is confident Johnson can be beaten by a Republican three years from now.

"The very things Johnson is being praised so highly for now are going to become his failures in time," Nixon said. "These programs he is pushing hold out a lot of promises. But when they are not fulfilled — and a great many of them won't be — the reaction will set in."

He was asked specifically if Republicans were depending upon any disastrous developments in Viet Nam to undermine Johnson's political base.

"Not at all," Nixon said. "He is going to be defeated by what happens domestically and not by what happens in Viet Nam."

Nixon joined Eisenhower in support of Johnson's course of restrained escalation of the Viet Nam conflict. But he said that he opposes any concessions to the Communists, in efforts to end the war, which would neutralize South Viet Nam's government, involve a coalition regime which might open the way to Communist control, or cause the loss to Saigon of "one foot of territory."

Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, turned aside questions as to whether he is competing for the 1968 nomination to oppose Johnson's expected bid for re-election. But there was not much doubt in the minds of Republicans who watched his handshaking progress among their ranks that he is available.

Man, 54, Dies When Struck In Hopewell

A 54-year-old McKeesport man became Beaver County's ninth pedestrian traffic death and the 23rd motor vehicle fatality to date when he was pronounced dead on arrival at Rochester General Hospital as a result of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car on the Monaca-Aliquippa Blvd. in Hopewell Township Thursday at 10:40 p.m.

County Coroner John W. Colavincenzo said Samuel Truesdell of 205 Sunset Dr., McKeesport, died instantly as the result of a crushed chest and multiple fractures of the legs and body.

Hopewell Township Police Chief Joseph Unis said Truesdell, an electrical contractor for the Kobuta plant of the Kopper-Sinclair Co. in Potter Township, was struck by a car operated by Robert Toph, 26, of Stone Quarry Rd., Center Township.

Toph told police he was traveling north in the right lane of the three - lane highway when he came upon a man standing in the middle of the road with his arms stretched out as if trying to stop traffic and couldn't avoid hitting him.

Beware Of Medicare Fraud

The new medicare program nas opened another potentially lucrative vista for unprincipled con men. The elderly in our community should be fully aware of it.

A tip on the most vicious fraud we've heard of in some time comes from the Social Security Administration in Washington which says racketeers posing as Social Security field agents are bilking the aged by pretending to sign them up for medicare.

The slick-talking con-men show their intended victims some authentic information about the new law along with some official brochures which are available to anyone at any Social Security Office.

THEN COMES the hooker. They tell the Social Security recipient he can obtain a special discount on medicare insurance by signing up now and paying in advance.

If successful, the shysters pocket the money and depart forevermore, leaving their victim not only poorer but thinking he has been enrolled in the medicare program.

The racketeers already have been reported in Texas and New York and may be operating elsewhere.

So keep these facts in mind:

There is no charge for signing up for medicare insurance.

Enrollment cards will be mailed automatically to persons already on the Social Security rolls before the program goes into effect next July 1; others should enroll in person at local Social Security offices.

No one will come to your door to collect and there is no discount for enrolling early.

IF YOU'RE approached by anyone asking for money under the guise of medicare, you have a fraud artist on your hands. Report him to the nearest FBI office.

Impersonating a Social Security agent is a federal offense. It carries a maximum penalty of three years in prison and a fine, which is less than these characters deserve.

Another Warning

Any traffic fatality is sickening, but doubly so when youngsters are involved.

As was the case Wednesday night when two teen-age Weirton girls were killed and three companions injured.

What's happened has happened. All that can be hoped is that the tragedy stirs a new sense of responsibility among teenage and adult drivers alike and serves as a greater spur to highway safety.

Mangled bodies and battered cars are a horrible price to pay for a moment of carelessness.

Shutting Out The Outdoors

Do you enjoy the great outdoors? What a pity.

For sooner than we think, all of us may be living our entire lives indoors, venturing out only as a great adventure or in some dire emergency such as fire or flood.

We will live in air-conditioned homes, ride in air-conditioned cars or buses and work in air-conditioned offices and factories.

We will soak up knowledge and culture in air-conditioned schools, theaters, movie palaces and museums.

WE WILL WATCH air-conditioned baseball and football indoors, under glass.

We will get our exercise in air-conditioned bowling lanes, tennis courts, putting greens and driving courses.

Fantasy? Don't be too sure.

More and more, our homes are being sealed tight against the outdoors.

Ditto for motels, hotels, airplanes, trains and buses. And for stores, offices, factories and public buildings.

We are, in fact, not only making many of our public buildings outdoor-proof, but are building them without windows so the occupants need not be reminded that there is an outdoors.

We already have one huge indoor sports stadium and they are planning others so that baseball fans may not be hot and football fans may not be cold.

We not only are annoyed by the outdoors, we are trying to kill it as well.

The air we used to call "fresh" is now so polluted we are afraid to breathe it.

Lakes and rivers once crystal clear and sparkling are now big cesspools. So more and more we swim in man-made pools, many of them indoors.

MAJESTIC forests and sylvan glades, once our delight, are giving way to monstrous commercial developments.

So if you like sunshine, old-fashioned outdoor air and outdoor life in general, enjoy them while you may.

The day may come when you will be written off as a kook if you so much as walk to the corner to mail a letter.

An Idiotic Act

Why do they do it? That's the first question that comes to mind when cases of senseless vandalism occur.

It's being asked again in connection with the breaking and entering at South Side High School this week.

In some instances of vandalism, theft may be the motivating force. But, generally, from available evidence, it appears some sudden impulse is responsible.

Impulse or no impulse, there can be no justification for such idiotic acts. Vandalism such as that at South Side High School is something we well can do without.

Apprehension and proper punishment of the guilty could do much to put a stop to the practice. Law enforcement authorities can perform another service by pushing the present case to the limit and bringing in the culprits for their just reckoning.

Not Convincing

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

This country and Russia have good supplies of nuclear weapons and very fine statements. But, while they frighten each other with their weapons, they can't convince each other with their statements.

They have been talking to each other for 19 years about controlling their nuclear weapons and there's no reason to think they won't be doing it for another 19.

In 1964 President Johnson, within less than two months after taking office, sent a message to the disarmament conference in Geneva, saying: "There is only one item on the agenda of this conference and that is peace."

The conference went on for months afterwards and then broke up.

Johnson's statement was similar to one the Russians used three years before in urging the easing of tensions: "There is no task more vital and urgent today than the task of preserving peace."

The two statements weren't much different from one made by Bernard Baruch 19 years ago when the United States alone had the atomic bomb and he started the talks going with a control plan he gave the United Nations in 1946.

"We are here," he said, "to make a choice between the quick and the dead."

Last month Johnson sent another message, this time to the 17-nation disarmament conference opening in Geneva July 27. It sounded like the 1964 message.

"Nothing," he said, "is more important than the effort to halt the spread of nuclear power and bring the weapons of war under increased control."

But the conference opened on a sour note, for the chief Soviet negotiator, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, said there was no hope of agreement on a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons so long as the West insists on building up a multilateral nuclear force, including West Germany.

The United States has wanted to create a nuclear force within the NATO alliance, particularly since NATO seems to be drooping. It would include Germany. In addition to the United States, Britain and France are the only NATO powers with nuclear force.

This week the United States unveiled its proposal for a treaty. Before it did, Johnson sent another message, saying the "fate of generations yet unborn" is in the hands of the Geneva conference.

But immediately this American plan on how to stop additional nations from becoming nuclear powers was brushed aside by the Russians as a joke. And even Britain gave it only lukewarm support.

So now, 24 days after the conference opened, it is all but dead.

The key article in the American proposal had a sweep to it, even though it was patched together in a hurry at the last minute. What the article left unsaid is what the Russians found wrong with it.

It called on each nuclear power to undertake "not to transfer any nuclear weapons into the national control of any nonnuclear state, either directly or indirectly through a military alliance and each undertakes not to take any other action which would cause an increase in the total number of states and other organizations having independent power to use nuclear weapons."

It might take a while to digest all that but what was left unsaid turned out to be this:

Under the United States proposal it could go ahead and set up the NATO nuclear force (which the Russians said it wouldn't buy) and West Germany, although a non-nuclear power, could be included (which the Russians don't want).

Presumably, the United States, Britain, and France, since they would be the only powers among the Allies with nuclear weapons of their own, would have a veto on any use of them.

The Russians said the American proposal was not worth discussing. Even before the United States introduced its proposal a Soviet official said: "Today the West creates a newborn baby—a stillborn one."

Odd Facts

Lloyds of London, the world - famous insurance organization, began as a sideline to a coffee shop in 1688. Edward Lloyd, who operated the shop, began to help some of his customers who were seamen with their records and soon he was in the business of insuring their ships and cargoes.

The distinction between an "introvert" and an "extrovert" lies in the fact that the former is preoccupied with his own mental processes and attitudes, and with the way he is regarded by others — while an "extrovert" is one who is interested in things and people outside of himself.

Viet Nam Policy Gets Veterans Backing

By DAVID LAWRENCE

David Lawrence

The veterans who have served in three major wars in the last half century are well aware of the hardships of war, yet they are not pacifists. They do not favor the surrender of principle, because they know that wars too often come as the result of appeasement. Mingling with the Veterans of Foreign Wars last Monday at their 66th national convention in Chicago, one was impressed by the support that they give to the American position in the Viet Nam war — a fight for a great principle.

This correspondent does not make public speeches, but in accepting an award from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, he addressed the members on the subject of "International Cooperation" and particularly cited economic power as a means of helping to end the war in Viet Nam. Here is an excerpt explaining this very point:

"Perhaps the least-used power to prevent war is economic power. Prior to World War II, attempts were made to put an economic embargo on trade with certain countries, but the Western Allies did not cooperate with each other. Today every nation goes its own way seeking trade in pursuit of the dollar or the pound or the peso or the franc, as the case may be. This is not international cooperation. It's international anarchy.

"IF THE UNITED STATES has a just cause, then why should not the other nations of the world support it?

"If the only way to bring another nation to terms is to impose an economic embargo so that its trade will be disrupted and it will not receive economic aid from outside, then why should not those who say they are sympathetic with our cause maintain their alliance with us and actually cooperate on economic embargoes?

"We need to convince other nations — the free peoples who think as we do — that the cause for which we are fighting is just as important to them as it is to us. Certainly it's disheartening for the United States to be sacrificing the lives of its own boys while the allied countries, whose interests are so often aided by us, adopt a course which amounts to helping our enemies.

"We approve the idea of international discussion in any forum, including that provided by the United Nations. But it's more important that the major nations of the world shall take collective action as provided in the U.N. Charter itself. It doesn't always have to be military action, but it certainly requires economic cooperation.

"BUT WHILE more than 150,000 Americans are fighting or are about to fight in Viet Nam, we have not declared formally 'a state of war.' If we did, then, under international law, other nations would be required to respect our request that no economic aid be given to North Viet Nam — our enemy in the battle — and its co-belligerent, Red China. International law is firm on that point. It's not considered legal to trade with any belligerent power without subjecting such trade to seizure through the interposition of military and naval force. International law does not uphold the right of any country to ship contraband goods to a belligerent power.

"The peoples of the allied countries do not seem much concerned. Yet we have sacrificed the lives of our own young men to preserve freedom in these same nations, too. Today we are risking the lives of tens of thousands of Americans in Viet Nam, and it's essential that our friends in the allied governments take a firm stand along with us and refrain from trading with the enemy."

ONE OBJECTION being raised to the declaration of "a state of war" is that hostilities would be expected against Red China. But this is not necessarily so, as an embargo on arms shipments can be imposed around a country which is the scene of a war without involving any use of force outside the area except to seize or turn back shipments of arms and military supplies.

Speaking of the human sacrifices involved in war, Vice President Humphrey, at the opening session of the VFW convention on Monday, made the following statement, which has had little, if any, public attention throughout the country:

"The South Vietnamese army since 1961 has suffered 25,000 dead and 51,000 wounded—greater losses, in proportion to population, than we suffered in all of World War II; ten times our losses in the Korean War.

"The South Vietnamese people, last year alone, lost 436 local officials to assassination, lost another 1,100 officials to kidnaping and an unknown fate, lost 11,000 civilians to murder, kidnaping and forced labor — but, in face of intimidation, turned out to vote in recent elections in far higher percentages than we usually reach in our own American elections."

'Sometimes I Think You Care More For Your Trouble Spots Than You Do For Me'

San Salvador Battles Communist Influence

By VICTOR RIESEL

SAN SALVADOR

This mountainous land of dead volcanoes and lively politics in all their grandeur is the Western Hemisphere's smallest mainland nation but Fidel Castro is known to drool over it. For Cuba, this country would be a terrific prize. It would give Havana an outlet on the Pacific so Castro could run a Communist infiltration network southward along the curving coastline still immune to him.

Victor Riesel

But neither he nor his Moscovite allies are going to take El Salvador, despite a small but tough and intricate underground. Salvadoran leaders are too dedicated to freedom and the U.S. to allow themselves to be taken.

And that is good. The Communists of the world may not be united but they all are attempting to make the tiny nations the war fronts of the world.

EL SALVADOR won't be taken because of men such as President Julio Rivera. He practices what he preaches — egalitarianism. When he wants to dash to another city he gets on his American-made motorcycle and rides there alone. If one of his cabinet people must go along, they too mount cycles. He drives his own car. He goes out to the ball game in his shirt sleeves, eats hot dogs and screams at the players along with the rest.

Let this not give you any wrong impression. This is not a comic opera land. You can tell that immediately from the swift inflow of heavy German and Japanese investments. You see it readily during a visit with President Rivera in the Presidencia. In his marble-floored spartan office, he talks with the swiftness of an erudite economist though he is an army colonel who made it the Democratic way.

President Rivera is one of the few Latin statesmen who does not cuss out the U.S. in public. When we were together he spoke of the Western Hemisphere being a single family with some older brothers and some like El Salvador being younger and less affluent. And older or younger, bigger or smaller, brothers always need each other.

THROUGH IT ALL there is a warmth for our country which is heartening after a journey through Latin America. And it all springs from the day 150 years ago when the Salvadorans sent a mission to Washington to ask that this land be permitted to become one of the United States.

You find pro-U.S. sentiment far and wide outside the Presidencia. I have just talked with an industrialist worth upwards of $40 million. He is about to attend an American university for a semester, though he is in his 50s, so he can learn the ways of American production techniques and study U.S. labor-management relations.

On the other side, Salvadoran labor leaders have told me with sophisticated pride of their studies in the U.S. at the training school operated in Washington by the joint labor - management organization known as the American Institute for Free Labor Development. But despite the sentiment on all sides, it will take energy to stay free.

AS RECENTLY as Oct. 1960, the Communists had a powerful hand in the overthrow of the government. This they did by supplying the power from the unions they controlled to something called the "PRAM" —the Revolutionary Party of April and May.

This Soviet-Castro- "independent" combine ruled for some three months. Then they were overthrown by democratic forces. Free elections were held.

Strong anti-subversive laws were passed. El Salvador joined in the special Central American permanent "conference" which meets regularly to develop and implement strategy for the fight against the underground.

President Rivera spoke of the work of his minister of interior on this front — the effort to halt the flow of Central American Communists to Communist countries for training in subversive techniques.

Recently three Communist agents were arrested. But the president explained Communists are not turned into martyrs. So they lose their appeal. Thus El Salvador is the only country where the Communist students are swiftly losing elections — and therefore power—in the national university.

BUT THE Communist unionists never give up. They have organized a super high command though the Communist party is illegal.

They always have money. And it is fascinating to see them, in this corner of the world, adopt the same strategy they used to capture so successfully some major unions in the U.S. back in the '30s.

Since their short-lived revolution the Communists have been working through a front organization called the Trade Union Unity Committee. Thus they are able to get independent unions to join with them in a series of causes.

Not all of the independent are Communists. Not all are fully controlled. But the committee is able to issue statements. And, significantly, the largest independent union in the land, the railway workers, is in the Unity front.

Somehow the Communists always manage to gain new strength from old defeats. They keep hammering at our friends.

When our allies in the El Salvadors of the world look to "we, the people" of the U.S., they often find us looking elsewhere, watching outer space, instead of worrying about those on earth seeking to befriend us. Giving them some money through U.S. AID is fine. But they are a sophisticated people here. They want equality and fraternity in the family of nations.

Education In California

By Raymond Moley

The temptation is very strong to devote my comment this week to the incredible outbreak of mob violence in Los Angeles and elsewhere. But so many others have proffered advice that I shall turn to a more peaceful subject, education, which is also occupying the thoughts of many responsible Californians.

California has probably been more generous than any other state in providing educational facilities for the young and old. It has taxed and bonded itself to the limit to offer all kinds of teaching for everybody.

But the head of a first-class college there recently told me that California had made it so easy to move from high school to college that it is hard to get the students to settle down and work, to say nothing of going out to find productive and remunerative employment. He added, "When they hit a good faculty in a good college, many fail to respond." The result is a huge number of dropouts.

A MOST interesting study of the whole drop-out phenomenon is in a report this year by Edward Sanders and Hans Palmer. It shows that there is a very large dropout — 23 per cent — between the 10th grade and high-school graduation.

Of those who graduate from high school, a very large percentage, 84.9, enroll in some college. That is higher than in any other state in the nation. Also the proportion of those enrollees who take only part-time college work is higher than in the nation as a whole — 31.4 per cent.

While so many enter a college of some sort, an astounding number, 73 per cent, do not graduate. Only 15.8 per cent of students enrolled in the 10th grade ultimately graduate from college.

The study from which these figures are taken is purely statistical. It's left to others to evaluate the effects of this great attrition and its causes.

Perhaps some will attribute the dropout tendency to the failure of the teaching staff to interest their students. Perhaps if that is a cause, the fault is not with the teaching but with the quality of the students.

IN THAT CASE, the way to help keep these youngsters in college would be to provide Beatles, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, as teachers.

Certainly that would help keep the teen-age girls, if New York's experience last week is any indication of the attractiveness of the hairy entertainers.

It would seem that this enormous financial waste can largely be attributed to the easy standards of admission. It used to be quite a job to get the money and the scholastic equipment to get into college. But with the money flowing from Sacramento and Washington, it is really quite a task to stay out of college.

This condition of easy enrollment — it used to be called "matriculation" — does not prevail in the fine privately endowed institutions in California which have stricter academic requirements. But it ceratinly prevails in the publicly supported institutions.

It seems that in California and elsewhere the need is to eliminate this waste and thus provide better education for fewer but more durable students and at less cost to the taxpayers.

Beware Of Medicare Fraud

The new medicare program has opened another potentially lucrative vista for unprincipled con men. The elderly in our community should be fully aware of it.

A tip on the most vicious fraud we've heard of in some time comes from the Social Security Administration in Washington which says racketeers posing as Social Security field agents are bilking the aged by pretending to sign them up for medicare.

The slick-talking con-men show their intended victims some authentic information about the new law along with some official brochures which are available to anyone at any Social Security Office.

THEN COMES the hooker. They tell the Social Security recipient he can obtain a special discount on medicare insurance by signing up now and paying in advance.

If successful, the shysters pocket the money and depart forevermore, leaving their victim not only poorer but thinking he has been enrolled in the medicare program.

The racketeers already have been reported in Texas and New York and may be operating elsewhere.

So keep these facts in mind:

There is no charge for signing up for medicare insurance.

Enrollment cards will be mailed automatically to persons already on the Social Security rolls before the program goes into effect next July 1; others should enroll in person at local Social Security offices.

No one will come to your door to collect and there is no discount for enrolling early.

IF YOU'RE approached by anyone asking for money under the guise of medicare, you have a fraud artist on your hands. Report him to the nearest FBI office.

Impersonating a Social Security agent is a federal offense. It carries a maximum penalty of three years in prison and a fine, which is less than these characters deserve.

Another Warning

Any traffic fatality is sickening, but doubly so when youngsters are involved.

As was the case Wednesday night when two teen-age Weirton girls were killed and three companions injured.

What's happened has happened. All that can be hoped is that the tragedy stirs a new sense of responsibility among teenage and adult drivers alike and serves as a greater spur to highway safety.

Mangled bodies and battered cars are a horrible price to pay for a moment of carelessness.

Shutting Out The Outdoors

Do you enjoy the great outdoors? What a pity.

For sooner than we think, all of us may be living our entire lives indoors, venturing out only as a great adventure or in some dire emergency such as fire or flood.

We will live in air-conditioned homes, ride in air-conditioned cars or buses and work in air-conditioned offices and factories.

We will soak up knowledge and culture in air-conditioned schools, theaters, movie palaces and museums.

WE WILL WATCH air-conditioned baseball and football indoors, under glass.

We will get our exercise in air-conditioned bowling lanes, tennis courts, putting greens and driving courses.

Fantasy? Don't be too sure.

More and more, our homes are being sealed tight against the outdoors.

Ditto for motels, hotels, airplanes, trains and buses. And for stores, offices, factories and public buildings.

We are, in fact, not only making many of our public buildings outdoor-proof, but are building them without windows so the occupants need not be reminded that there is an outdoors.

We already have one huge indoor sports stadium and they are planning others so that baseball fans may not be hot and football fans may not be cold.

We not only are annoyed by the outdoors, we are trying to kill it as well.

The air we used to call "fresh" is now so polluted we are afraid to breathe it.

Lakes and rivers once crystal clear and sparkling are now big cesspools. So more and more we swim in man-made pools, many of them indoors.

MAJESTIC forests and sylvan glades, once our delight, are giving way to monstrous commercial developments.

So if you like sunshine, old-fashioned outdoor air and outdoor life in general, enjoy them while you may.

The day may come when you will be written off as a kook if you so much as walk to the corner to mail a letter.

An Idiotic Act

Why do they do it? That's the first question that comes to mind when cases of senseless vandalism occur.

It's being asked again in connection with the breaking and entering at South Side High School this week.

In some instances of vandalism, theft may be the motivating force. But, generally, from available evidence, it appears some sudden impulse is responsible.

Impulse or no impulse, there can be no justification for such idiotic acts. Vandalism such as that at South Side High School is something we well can do without.

Apprehension and proper punishment of the guilty could do much to put a stop to the practice. Law enforcement authorities can perform another service by pushing the present case to the limit and bringing in the culprits for their just reckoning.

Not Convincing

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

This country and Russia have good supplies of nuclear weapons and very fine statements. But, while they frighten each other with their weapons, they can't convince each other with their statements.

They have been talking to each other for 19 years about controlling their nuclear weapons and there's no reason to think they won't be doing it for another 19.

In 1964 President Johnson, within less than two months after taking office, sent a message to the disarmament conference in Geneva, saying: "There is only one item on the agenda of this conference and that is peace."

The conference went on for months afterwards and then broke up.

Johnson's statement was similar to one the Russians used three years before in urging the easing of tensions: "There is no task more vital and urgent today than the task of preserving peace."

The two statements weren't much different from one made by Bernard Baruch 19 years ago when the United States alone had the atomic bomb and he started the talks going with a control plan he gave the United Nations in 1946.

"We are here," he said, "to make a choice between the quick and the dead."

Last month Johnson sent another message, this time to the 17-nation disarmament conference opening in Geneva July 27. It sounded like the 1964 message.

"Nothing," he said, "is more important than the effort to halt the spread of nuclear power and bring the weapons of war under increased control."

But the conference opened on a sour note, for the chief Soviet negotiator, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, said there was no hope of agreement on a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons so long as the West insists on building up a multilateral nuclear force, including West Germany.

The United States has wanted to create a nuclear force within the NATO alliance, particularly since NATO seems to be drooping. It would include Germany. In addition to the United States, Britain and France are the only NATO powers with nuclear force.

This week the United States unveiled its proposal for a treaty. Before it did, Johnson sent another message, saying the "fate of generations yet unborn" is in the hands of the Geneva conference.

But immediately this American plan on how to stop additional nations from becoming nuclear powers was brushed aside by the Russians as a joke. And even Britain gave it only lukewarm support.

So now, 24 days after the conference opened, it is all but dead.

The key article in the American proposal had a sweep to it, even though it was patched together in a hurry at the last minute. What the article left unsaid is what the Russians found wrong with it.

It called on each nuclear power to undertake "not to transfer any nuclear weapons into the national control of any non-nuclear state, either directly or indirectly through a military alliance and each undertakes not to take any other action which would cause an increase in the total number of states and other organizations having independent power to use nuclear weapons."

It might take a while to digest all that but what was left unsaid turned out to be this:

Under the United States proposal it could go ahead and set up the NATO nuclear force (which the Russians said it wouldn't buy) and West Germany, although a non-nuclear power, could be included (which the Russians don't want).

Presumably, the United States, Britain, and France, since they would be the only powers among the Allies with nuclear weapons of their own, would have a veto on any use of them.

The Russians said the American proposal was not worth discussing. Even before the United States introduced its proposal a Soviet official said: "Today the West creates a newborn baby—a stillborn one."

Odd Facts

Lloyds of London, the world - famous insurance organization, began as a sideline to a coffee shop in 1688. Edward Lloyd, who operated the shop, began to help some of his customers who were seamen with their records and soon he was in the business of insuring their ships and cargoes.

The distinction between an "introvert" and an "extrovert" lies in the fact that the former is preoccupied with his own mental processes and attitudes, and with the way he is regarded by others — while an "extrovert" is one who is interested in things and people outside of himself.

Viet Nam Policy Gets Veterans Backing

By DAVID LAWRENCE

The veterans who have served in three major wars in the last half century are well aware of the hardships of war, yet they are not pacifists. They do not favor the surrender of principle, because they know that wars too often come as the result of appeasement.

David Lawrence

Mingling with the Veterans of Foreign Wars last Monday at their 66th national convention in Chicago, one was impressed by the support that they give to the American position in the Viet Nam war — a fight for a great principle.

This correspondent does not make public speeches, but in accepting an award from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, he addressed the members on the subject of "International Cooperation" and particularly cited economic power as a means of helping to end the war in Viet Nam. Here is an excerpt explaining this very point:

"Perhaps the least-used power to prevent war is economic power. Prior to World War II, attempts were made to put an economic embargo on trade with certain countries, but the Western Allies did not cooperate with each other. Today every nation goes its own way seeking trade in pursuit of the dollar or the pound or the peso or the franc, as the case may be. This is not international cooperation. It's international anarchy.

"IF THE UNITED STATES has a just cause, then why should not the other nations of the world support it?

"If the only way to bring another nation to terms is to impose an economic embargo so that its trade will be disrupted and it will not receive economic aid from outside, then why should not those who say they are sympathetic with our cause maintain their alliance with us and actually cooperate on economic embargoes?

"We need to convince other nations — the free peoples who think as we do — that the cause for which we are fighting is just as important to them as it is to us. Certainly it's disheartening for the United States to be sacrificing the lives of its own boys while the allied countries, whose interests are so often aided by us, adopt a course which amounts to helping our enemies.

"We approve the idea of international discussion in any forum, including that provided by the United Nations. But it's more important that the major nations of the world shall take collective action as provided in the U.N. Charter itself. It doesn't always have to be military action, but it certainly requires economic cooperation.

"BUT WHILE more than 150,000 Americans are fighting or are about to fight in Viet Nam, we have not declared formally 'a state of war.' If we did, then, under international law, other nations would be required to respect our request that no economic aid be given to North Viet Nam — our enemy in the battle — and its co-belligerent, Red China. International law is firm on that point. It's not considered legal to trade with any belligerent power without subjecting such trade to seizure through the interposition of military and naval force. International law does not uphold the right of any country to ship contraband goods to a belligerent power.

"The peoples of the allied countries do not seem much concerned. Yet we have sacrificed the lives of our own young men to preserve freedom in these same nations, too. Today we are risking the lives of tens of thousands of Americans in Viet Nam, and it's essential that our friends in the allied governments take a firm stand along with us and refrain from trading with the enemy."

ONE OBJECTION being raised to the declaration of "a state of war" is that hostilities would be expected against Red China. But this is not necessarily so, as an embargo on arms shipments can be imposed around a country which is the scene of a war without involving any use of force outside the area except to seize or turn back shipments of arms and military supplies.

Speaking of the human sacrifices involved in war, Vice President Humphrey, at the opening session of the VFW convention on Monday, made the following statement, which has had little, if any, public attention throughout the country:

"The South Vietnamese army since 1961 has suffered 25,000 dead and 51,000 wounded—greater losses, in proportion to population, than we suffered in all of World War II; ten times our losses in the Korean War.

"The South Vietnamese people, last year alone, lost 436 local officials to assassination, lost another 1,100 officials to kidnaping and an unknown fate, lost 11,000 civilians to murder, kidnaping and forced labor — but, in face of intimidation, turned out to vote in recent elections in far higher percentages than we usually reach in our own American elections."

'Sometimes I Think You Care More For Your Trouble Spots Than You Do For Me'

San Salvador Battles Communist Influence

By VICTOR RIESEL

SAN SALVADOR

This mountainous land of dead volcanoes and lively politics in all their grandeur is the Western Hemisphere's smallest mainland nation but Fidel Castro is known to drool over it.

Victor Riesel

For Cuba, this country would be a terrific prize. It would give Havana an outlet on the Pacific so Castro could run a Communist infiltration network southward along the curving coastline still immune to him.

But neither he nor his Moscovite allies are going to take El Salvador, despite a small but tough and intricate underground. Salvadoran leaders are too dedicated to freedom and the U.S. to allow themselves to be taken.

And that is good. The Communists of the world may not be united but they all are attempting to make the tiny nations the war fronts of the world.

EL SALVADOR won't be taken because of men such as President Julio Rivera. He practices what he preaches — egalitarianism. When he wants to dash to another city he gets on his American-made motorcycle and rides there alone. If one of his cabinet people must go along, they too mount cycles. He drives his own car. He goes out to the ball game in his shirt sleeves, eats hot dogs and screams at the players along with the rest.

Let this not give you any wrong impression. This is not a comic opera land. You can tell that immediately from the swift inflow of heavy German and Japanese investments. You see it readily during a visit with President Rivera in the Presidencia. In his marble-floored spartan office, he talks with the swiftness of an erudite economist though he is an army colonel who made it the Democratic way.

President Rivera is one of the few Latin statesmen who does not cuss out the U.S. in public. When we were together he spoke of the Western Hemisphere being a single family with some older brothers and some like El Salvador being younger and less affluent. And older or younger, bigger or smaller, brothers always need each other.

THROUGH IT ALL there is a warmth for our country which is heartening after a journey through Latin America. And it all springs from the day 150 years ago when the Salvadorans sent a mission to Washington to ask that this land be permitted to become one of the United States.

You find pro-U.S. sentiment far and wide outside the Presidencia. I have just talked with an industrialist worth upwards of $40 million. He is about to attend an American university for a semester, though he is in his 50s, so he can learn the ways of American production techniques and study U.S. labor-management relations.

On the other side, Salvadoran labor leaders have told me with sophisticated pride of their studies in the U.S. at the training school operated in Washington by the joint labor - management organization known as the American Institute for Free Labor Development. But despite the sentiment on all sides, it will take energy to stay free.

AS RECENTLY as Oct. 1960, the Communists had a powerful hand in the overthrow of the government. This they did by supplying the power from the unions they controlled to something called the "PRAM" —the Revolutionary Party of April and May.

This Soviet-Castro- "independent" combine ruled for some three months. Then they were overthrown by democratic forces. Free elections were held.

Strong anti-subversive laws were passed. El Salvador joined in the special Central American permanent "conference" which meets regularly to develop and implement strategy for the fight against the underground.

President Rivera spoke of the work of his minister of interior on this front — the effort to halt the flow of Central American Communists to Communist countries for training in subversive techniques.

Recently three Communist agents were arrested. But the president explained Communists are not turned into martyrs. So they lose their appeal. Thus El Salvador is the only country where the Communist students are swiftly losing elections — and therefore power— in the national university.

BUT THE Communist unionists never give up. They have organized a super high command though the Communist party is illegal.

They always have money. And it is fascinating to see them, in this corner of the world, adopt the same strategy they used to capture so successfully some major unions in the U.S. back in the '30s.

Since their short-lived revolution the Communists have been working through a front organization called the Trade Union Unity Committee. Thus they are able to get independent unions to join with them in a series of causes.

Not all of the independent are Communists. Not all are fully controlled. But the committee is able to issue statements. And, significantly, the largest independent union in the land, the railway workers, is in the Unity front.

Somehow the Communists always manage to gain new strength from old defeats. They keep hammering at our friends.

When our allies in the El Salvadors of the world look to "we, the people" of the U.S., they often find us looking elsewhere, watching outer space, instead of worrying about those on earth seeking to befriend us. considered a tight security barrier at Cape Kennedy.

First reports had the two as living in Beaver Falls. Developments disclosed that while one was a graduate of Beaver Falls High School, both now reside in State College, Pa.

Gary Ralph Young, 22, and Theodore Lee Ballenger, 17, caused all the commotion.

"If he hadn't made a remark last week that he was going to Florida, I wouldn't have dreamed it was him," Mrs. Wallace Young said last night of her son.

Mrs. Young, of North Sewickley Township in Beaver County, described Gary as being "the curous type."

She said her son attended Penn State University as an engineering student until last year when he was injured in a motorcycle - truck accident. He was in his junior year.

He is now a partner in "Two Wheels, Inc.," a combination motorcycle and bicycle repair firm at State College, Centre County.

His partner, Harvey Shoemaker, 23, said Gary "always has to be in the middle of things."

Young, who resides at 120 N. Barnard St., State College, is a 1961 graduate of Beaver Falls High School. He played scholastic football with quarterback Joe Namath, who recently signed with the New York Jets of the American Football League for a $400,000 bonus. Young did not play football at Penn State, however.

Ballenger, who will be 18 in September, was graduated in June from State College Joint High School. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Lee Ballenger of 1988 N. Oak Lane, State College.

"It was just a masster of too much curiosity," Mrs. Ballenger said of her son's action.

"He's not necessarily adventurous," she said, "but he is electronically - minded. He did say he would try to see Cape Kennedy while in Florida, but I never thought anything like this would happen."

She said her son had gone to Florida to enroll in Miami-Dad Junior College, where he was accepted for the fall term, and had planned to stay with relatives in Hialeah while studying business administration.

Visit Home Concluded By Irondale Airman

IRONDALE — Airman 1C John James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles James, has returned to Lackland Air Force base, Columbus, after a visit with his parents. He is a computer repairman.

Airman 3C Albert McCoy, a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. James, is studying radar and radio maintenance at Keesler Air Force base, Biloxi, Miss., after completing basic training at Lackland Air Force base.

2 Bound Over By Judge For Check Cases

Two district brothers were bound over to the Grand Jury today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on charges of issuing fraudulent checks.

The judge set bonds of $1,000 each for Lester Donahue, 19, and Robert E. Donahue, 23, both of Dresden Ave. Ext. They were named in affidavits signed by Fred Ravl.

Both signed waivers of preliminary hearings, pleaded not guilty and asked to be bound over. The pair at first sought to enter pleas of guilty, but the judge repeatedly denied the attempts, asserting that he would not accept such a plea unless they were represented by counsel to assure their rights would be safeguarded.

The two were before the court yesterday, when the judge set hearings next Thursday. The judge granted the continuances to permit the County Bar Association time to furnish counsel for the two. The two are indigent and unable to hire an attorney, the judge said.

Lester Donahue is accused of forging a $10 check on July 21. Robert E. Donahue is charged with "uttering and publishing as true and genuine" a $20 check drawn on the First National Bank on July 23.

The two brothers were taken before the court again this morning at their own insistence. They told the judge they wished to plead guilty today, rather than waiting another week in the City Jail. Disposition of the preliminary hearing would have permitted their transfer to the County Jail at Lisbon.

"I'm not going to allow you to plead guilty just because you don't like it in the local jail," the judge told the brothers. He finally allowed the pair to plead not guilty and waive preliminary hearings, pointing out the action would not jeopardize any of their legal rights.

Papers then were prepared for their transfer to County Jail.

considered a tight security barrier at Cape Kennedy.

First reports had the two as living in Beaver Falls. Developments disclosed that while one was a graduate of Beaver Falls High School, both now reside in State College, Pa.

Gary Ralph Young, 22, and Theodore Lee Ballenger, 17, caused all the commotion.

"If he hadn't made a remark last week that he was going to Florida, I wouldn't have dreamed it was him," Mrs. Wallace Young said last night of her son.

Mrs. Young, of North Sewickley Township in Beaver County, described Gary as being "the curous type."

She said her son attended Penn State University as an engineering student until last year when he was injured in a motorcycle - truck accident. He was in his junior year.

He is now a partner in "Two Wheels, Inc.," a combination motorcycle and bicycle repair firm at State College, Centre County.

His partner, Harvey Shoemaker, 23, said Gary "always has to be in the middle of things."

Young, who resides at 120 N. Barnard St., State College, is a 1961 graduate of Beaver Falls High School. He played scholastic football with quarterback Joe Namath, who recently signed with the New York Jets of the American Football League for a $400,000 bonus. Young did not play football at Penn State, however.

Ballenger, who will be 18 in September, was graduated in June from State College Joint High School. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Lee Ballenger of 1988 N. Oak Lane, State College.

"It was just a masster of too much curiosity," Mrs. Ballenger said of her son's action.

"He's not necessarily adventurous," she said, "but he is electronically - minded. He did say he would try to see Cape Kennedy while in Florida, but I never thought anything like this would happen."

She said her son had gone to Florida to enroll in Miami-Dad Junior College, where he was accepted for the fall term, and had planned to stay with relatives in Hialeah while studying business administration.

2 Bound Over By Judge For Check Cases

Two district brothers were bound over to the Grand Jury today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on charges of issuing fraudulent checks.

The judge set bonds of $1,000 each for Lester Donahue, 19, and Robert E. Donahue, 23, both of Dresden Ave. Ext. They were named in affidavits signed by Fred Ravl.

Both signed waivers of preliminary hearings, pleaded not guilty and asked to be bound over. The pair at first sought to enter pleas of guilty, but the judge repeatedly denied the attempts, asserting that he would not accept such a plea unless they were represented by counsel to assure their rights would be safeguarded.

The two were before the court yesterday, when the judge set hearings next Thursday. The judge granted the continuances to permit the County Bar Association time to furnish counsel for the two. The two are indigent and unable to hire an attorney, the judge said.

Lester Donahue is accused of forging a $10 check on July 21. Robert E. Donahue is charged with "uttering and publishing as true and genuine" a $20 check drawn on the First National Bank on July 23.

The two brothers were taken before the court again this morning at their own insistence. They told the judge they wished to plead guilty today, rather than waiting another week in the City Jail. Disposition of the preliminary hearing would have permitted their transfer to the County Jail at Lisbon.

"I'm not going to allow you to plead guilty just because you don't like it in the local jail," the judge told the brothers. He finally allowed the pair to plead not guilty and waive preliminary hearings, pointing out the action would not jeopardize any of their legal rights.

Family Of Seven From Ohio Starts Trip To Australia

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio family of seven left without fanfare Thursday for Australia, hoping to find things more promising for a small farmer.

Herschel Wical 38-year-old dairy farmer; his wife Betty, 37, and their five children, piled aboard a plane at Cox Memorial Airport with 308 pounds of luggage.

Only a couple of relatives were on hand to see them off.

The family flew to San Francisco, where they were to board a ship for the Down Under continent.

Wical, an Ohio State University graduate who majored in vocational agriculture, recently sold his 83 - acre dairy farm along the Selby-Auglaize county line and made arrangements with the Australian government to take up farming there.

He said the small farm is vanishing in America because of rising financial outlays to keep up.

Luxury Motel May Become One Of Driest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of Ohio's newest luxury motels could become one of the driest. It depends on whether its operators can satisfy requirements of the State Liquor Department.

Latest developments in the case of the Yankee Clipper Motor Lodge near Akron raise the question of whether it can sell beer or wine, not to mention hard liquor.

State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook referred Thursday to a citation against Frank Maragas, president of the Magnolia Corp. which operates the $1.4 million facility, for refusing to surrender beer and wine permits allegedly obtained under false pretenses.

Cook said the beer and wine permits were issued after Maragas listed the motel site as being in an unincorporated area. At the time, Cook said, the site was in the village of Boston Heights.

Maragas refused to surrender the permits by an Aug. 13 deadline, Cook said.

The director said the citation was assigned to the Ohio Liquor Commission for hearing. No date has been set, according to the attorney general's office, which dockets commission cases.

North Korean Agent Killed By South Patrol

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A two-man South Korean marine patrol killed an armed North Korean agent in an exchange of fire with a group of three agents Thursday night in the Han River estuary 25 miles northwest of Seoul, the marines announced today.

The three opened fire when challenged by the marine patrol, which caught them crossing the river in a boat, the marines said. Two agents jumped into the water and got away during the gun fight, they added.

Bankruptcy in ancient Rome was regarded as a crime, and the law gave creditors the choice either of selling the debtor into slavery or dividing his body into pieces.

Family Of Seven From Ohio Starts Trip To Australia

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio family of seven left without fanfare Thursday for Australia, hoping to find things more promising for a small farmer.

Herschel Wical 38-year-old dairy farmer; his wife Betty, 37, and their five children, piled aboard a plane at Cox Memorial Airport with 308 pounds of luggage.

Only a couple of relatives were on hand to see them off.

The family flew to San Francisco, where they were to board a ship for the Down Under continent.

Wical, an Ohio State University graduate who majored in vocational agriculture, recently sold his 83 - acre dairy farm along the Selby-Auglaize county line and made arrangements with the Australian government to take up farming there.

He said the small farm is vanishing in America because of rising financial outlays to keep up.

Luxury Motel May Become One Of Driest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of Ohio's newest luxury motels could become one of the driest. It depends on whether its operators can satisfy requirements of the State Liquor Department.

Latest developments in the case of the Yankee Clipper Motor Lodge near Akron raise the question of whether it can sell beer or wine, not to mention hard liquor.

State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook referred Thursday to a citation against Frank Maragas, president of the Magnolia Corp. which operates the $1.4 million facility, for refusing to surrender beer and wine permits allegedly obtained under false pretenses.

Cook said the beer and wine permits were issued after Maragas listed the motel site as being in an unincorporated area. At the time, Cook said, the site was in the village of Boston Heights.

Maragas refused to surrender the permits by an Aug. 13 deadline, Cook said.

The director said the citation was assigned to the Ohio Liquor Commission for hearing. No date has been set, according to the attorney general's office, which dockets commission cases.

The three opened fire when challenged by the marine patrol, which caught them crossing the river in a boat, the marines said. Two agents jumped into the water and got away during the gun fight, they added.

New Corporation Formed

Retirement Housing Plan Launched By Ohio BPW

The 10,000 - member Ohio Business and Professional Women's Federation has embarked on a $10-million statewide program of service to old people through housing and related facilities.

Miss Joan Witt, president of the local BPW, was informed today of the program designed for major metropolitan areas in Ohio by Mrs. Jeanne C. Squire of Berea, president of the Ohio Federation of BPW clubs.

The formation of a nonprofit corporation named "Ohio Business & Professional Women's Retirement Living, Inc." is the culmination of more than three years of study on the part of special BPW committees and members of the federation's Board of Directors. As second vice president and member of the board, Mrs. Ethel Lynn Wambaugh of the East Liverpool Club has participated in these planning discussions.

Officers and trustees of the new corporation are past state presidents, the current state president and first vice president of the Ohio BPW Federation.

The corporation has retained Senior Consultants, Inc., of Cleveland, to assist in the planning, financing and management phases of development.

Mrs. Edith Strommer of Bellevue, president of the corporation, explained that "the original facilities will not be rest homes, nursing homes or convalescent homes, but on the contrary will be patterned after the award-winning Westerly in Lakewood, Ohio."

Immediate plans, she said, call for facilities in the metropolitan areas of Toledo, Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland and in the longer range a complete health facility in a centrally - located site to be determined later.

"Our program," Mrs. Strommer added, "is aimed to serve those persons 62 or over, in reasonably good health, of average income, who want to live independently and in dignity in specially - designed facilities that are well located and modestly priced. This includes the vast majority of our BPW membership and a similar percentage of Ohio's Senior Citizens."

Club officials said there will be no founders' fees or sustainers' fees, but a "straight rental arrangement" will be adopted.

The architectural firm of Weinberg, Teare and Fisher of Cleveland has been retained by the corporation.

"We anticipate that our corporate structure and plan of action will serve as a pattern for state BPW federations all over the country," Mrs. Strommer said.

Public service projects are nothing new in the program of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Recent statewide and noteworthy projects have included an award - winning driver - improvement program, small business clinics, a drive to raise the standards of nursing homes and the Florence Allen Scholarship Loan Fund, which has helped some 70 young women with more than $50,000 to further their education.

Printer Given Copy For Fall Ballot Forms

The Dodge Publishing Co. of Salem, contractor, was given copy by the County Election Board Thursday afternoon for ballots that will be used at the Nov. 2 general election.

The Salem concern received the copy for ballots that will be used in municipal, village, township and school district elections, as well as for all local special questions and issues that have been filed to date, according to Frank R. O'Hanlon, election board clerk.

But printing work is being delayed temporarily on statewide questions and issues for lack of a final determination of how many will appear on the November ballot. Three statewide issues are due for a vote so far, but one or two more may be added later.

In listing the issues for local election boards, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown explained that he must wait until after the state legislature convenes again Aug. 31 to learn definitely if one or more statewide issues are to be added to the list.

Legislative reapportionment is one of the issues that may be added. Those now slated for statewide balloting would: Boost the sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent; authorize cities, townships and counties to adopt charters to create urban service authorities, and allow the same person to serve as judge of more than one court in counties with less than 40,000 population.

Local issues filed to date total 27, with one or two more expected, O'Hanlon said. The latest to be entered are a proposed 3½-mill levy that would run 10 years in the East Liverpool School District, providing funds for salaries of employes, and a five-year renewal of a 1.9-mill levy to help operate the city incinerator department.

The Wellsville Publishing Co. also has been given the green light to begin turning out ballots for a special election in the Wellsville School District Sept. 21 on an $846,000 bond issue and a companion tax levy. The school district is comprised of 15 precincts — 11 in the city and four in Madison and Yellow Creek Townships.

HANOVERTON — Arnold Bruckner, 38, maintenance man at the Mullins Manufacturing Co. at Salem, has begun his duties as Hanover Township constable.

Bruckner fills a vacancy created July 13 when Roy Painter was killed after his car veered off Route 30 just east of here.

Bruckner, who served as a medical technician in the Army, was appointed by township trustees at a salary of $100 a month. He is married to the former Carol Richey. They have a daughter.

Aachen was the first large German city to be occupied by American forces during World War II.

High, Low Spots Ground On St. Clair Ave. Project

A paving contractor has started work on attempting to correct dozens of alleged high and low spots in the new concrete surface of St. Clair Ave. before the project will be accepted by the State Highway Department.

A man operating a gasoline-powered grinding machine is at work on the pavement, reducing the uneven spots to a level that will make them acceptable to the state. The new surface is covered with dozens of blotches of yellow paint, marking deviations of an eighth of an inch or more from the proper level.

The uneven spots were detected and marked in a check with a machine known as a "profilometer," which determines if the concrete surface has the proper profile. In spots where it detects a low spot, it automatically marks the place with paint.

Louis Wetzel, the Highway Department field engineer, said in response to a question that the total number of low and high spots "is a good question."

"We quit counting," he said. He said the low and high spots are spread generally over the entire length of the job, not concentrated in a particular area.

Wetzel was unable to estimate how long it will require to smooth the uneven spots, but he conceded that grinding at cured concrete with a gas-powered machine is a slow process.

Wetzel said the paving subcontractor is the Central States Construction Co. of Canal Fulton. It was the paving firm which sent an employe here with the gas - powered machine to work on the uneven spots, he said.

Herman Brothers Construction Co. of Youngstown is the general contractor for the improvement. The contract price is $785,788.

The contract was awarded in June 1964 and work got under way last fall.

Sen. Byrd Seeks Johnson Help On Retirement Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., rejected by Congress in his attempt to reduce the age limit on voluntary social security retirement, has asked for help from President Johnson.

The West Virginian wrote to the President asking that the administration's legislative program for 1966 include a plan to allow retirement at age 60 with reduced benefits.

Byrd attempted to amend the recently passed Medicare bill with the proposal. The Senate approved the amendment, but the House turned it down and it was left out of the final bill signed by the President.

Under current Social Security law, persons can retire at 65 with full benefits or at 62 with reduced payments.

Three Are Hired For Posts In County Welfare System

LISBON — Three appointments to the County Welfare Department were approved Thursday by Columbiana County commissioners.

On the recommendation of County Welfare Director Robert Bycroft, those hired are:

Mrs. Annabelle Keys of East Liverpool, a graduate of West Virginia University, who will be a teacher at the county school for the retarded at Elkton. She will have the same classification as William Bingham, who is resigning Aug. 31, but will not instruct at the sheltered workshop. She will receive $400 a month.

Charles Bush of Lisbon, who will replace Jack Rummel as a bus driver. He will receive $120 a month for the part-time position.

Miss Judith Ann Barnhart of East Liverpool, hired for a newly-created position as assistant to Mrs. Ruth Diddle with the large custodial class at Elkton School. Miss Barnhart will receive $220 a month.

The commissioners noted the receipt of a letter from the Ohio Citizens Council for Health and Welfare at Columbus outlining changes involved in a new financing program for welfare. Under the plan, all relief agencies will be transferred under the county department, the head of which will be the county welfare director. The program is scheduled to start in July 1966.

The commissioners appointed Mrs. Margaret Weikart of 16½ S. Main St., Columbiana, as janitoress for the Northwest Area County Court.

A $7 travel allowance was approved for Dog Warden Russell Reichenbach and his assistant, Harold McCall, to attend the northeast Ohio dog wardens' convention in Fremont Wednesday.

Willshaw Due To Take Over Mayor's Post

In a sort of dress rehearsal for the role he will assume officially on Sept. 1, Council President George E. Willshaw will become East Liverpool's acting mayor late this afternoon when Mayor Merrill D. Hall departs for a three-week vacation in Florida.

Hall's official tenure as mayor continues through Aug. 31, when his resignation will be effective. But Willshaw will be de facto mayor for the next 11 days under a state law that says the Council president becomes the acting mayor in the chief executive's absence.

Hall's desk has been cleared and his station wagon is sitting outside City Hall, loaded with baggage and other gear. At the close of business this afternoon, he will step into his car, pick up Mrs. Hall and begin the drive to Florida.

The mayor and his wife will vacation approximately three weeks in Venice, Fla., expecting to return to East Liverpool after Labor Day.

The rest of East Liverpool's official family will remain unchanged. Willshaw announced earlier he would retain Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, a Hall appointee, and the clerical help in the two offices.

Hall announced his resignation unexpectedly on Aug. 4 at a Republican club meeting. When Hall did not bid for a new term, Willshaw was nominated on the GOP ticket to run for the mayor's post in the November general election.

The Democratic nominee is Robert Owen, an East End used car dealer who has served as First Ward councilman, Council president and safety-service director.

Court Delays Hearing In Fatal Mishap Case

EAST PALESTINE — A hearing for reckless operations filed against Joseph Franklin Taylor of Beaver Falls, driver of a car in which five of his family were killed July 31, was continued Thursday by Judge Herbert Arfman.

Taylor remained in Providence Hospital at Beaver Falls with injuries suffered in the crash and was unable to attend the scheduled hearing, officials said.

His wife, son, daughter, father-in-law and niece were killed when the car veered off Route 14, three miles west of the Pennsylvania line and rammed a tree.

USW Official Will Appear At Ambridge

AMBRIDGE, Pa. — Walter J. Burke of Milwaukee, secretary-treasurer of the United Steelworkers of America, will speak here Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

The site will be the Ambridge Borough Park, where Ambridge American Legion Post 341 will hold its annual picnic. The outing is for the benefit of the Veterans Day Parade, which will be held here Nov. 11.

Burke is one of several new national officers elected earlier this year. The veteran union man succeeded I. W. Abel, when the latter successfully won the presidency seat.

William McGarry, president of the American Bridge Co. Local 1270 USW-CIO, will be master of ceremonies. Mayor Walter Panek will give the welcome address.

Local and district union officials will be on hand to greet the national officer.

Assault Hearing Set

EAST PALESTINE — Edgar Derenberger of Lisbon R. D. 3 pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault before County Judge Herbert Arfman Thursday and his case was scheduled for a hearing Aug. 23. The charge was filed by Floyd Reynolds of Wellsville on behalf of his daughter, Margie, who is Derenberger's wife.

Driver Cited In 3-Vehicle 'Chain' Crash

A Chester driver and a LaCroft motorist escaped injury in a three-vehicle crash on Route 45, two miles north of Lisbon, early Thursday afternoon, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

William Gunn, 54, of 6th Ave., LaCroft, was cited as a result of the mishap which involved his car, one operated by Kenneth Lee Durbin, 24, of Phoenix Ave., Chester, and a truck driven by Rodney Ross, 48, of Salem.

Officers said all were headed south about 1:35 p.m. when Durbin began to pass Gunn. As Durbin's 1961 sedan was beside Gunn's 1962 sedan, Gunn pulled out to pass the truck driven by Ross head of him.

Gunn's car hit Durbin's car in the right rear, and Durbin lost control, his auto striking the side of the truck, causing Ross to lose control, the truck leaving the highway and hitting a tree.

Gunn was charged with failure to signal intent to pass.

Ex-Officer Fined $50 In Road Pursuit

A former city man and one-time Ohio Highway Patrolman, charged with speeding up to 100 miles an hour while pursued by a patrol cruiser was fined $50 and costs by County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine Thursday.

John R. Anderson, 26, of Pasadena, Calif., was cited Monday on the Y. & O. Rd., where he halted after the chase on Route 30.

Patrol officers said a cruiser man spotted Anderson headed south on Route 30 at a speed estimated at 85 miles an hour. The officer gave chase and said during the pursuit Anderson's car hit 100 miles an hour.

Anderson turned off at the Y. & O. Rd., the patrol said, and halted, telling the following patrolman he had been unaware he was being pursued.

Anderson, a graduate of the Patrol Academy who resigned after serving for a time, is working temporarily in Ohio. Judge Arfman suspended his driving rights for six months.

2 Motorists Charged

SALINEVILLE — Glenn Allen Stewart of Salineville R.D. 1 and Thomas E. Broyles of New Philadelphia were cited for stop sign violations Thursday night at Routes 39 and 164 by Deputy Marshal Gordon Sweeney. They are due hearings Aug. 26 before Mayor Stanley Fitch.

Willshaw Due To Take Over Mayor's Post

In a sort of dress rehearsal for the role he will assume officially on Sept. 1, Council President George E. Willshaw will become East Liverpool's acting mayor late this afternoon when Mayor Merrill D. Hall departs for a three-week vacation in Florida.

Hall's official tenure as mayor continues through Aug. 31, when his resignation will be effective. But Willshaw will be de facto mayor for the next 11 days under a state law that says the Council president becomes the acting mayor in the chief executive's absence.

Hall's desk has been cleared and his station wagon is sitting outside City Hall, loaded with baggage and other gear. At the close of business this afternoon, he will step into his car, pick up Mrs. Hall and begin the drive to Florida.

The mayor and his wife will vacation approximately three weeks in Venice, Fla., expecting to return to East Liverpool after Labor Day.

The rest of East Liverpool's official family will remain unchanged. Willshaw announced earlier he would retain Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, a Hall appointee, and the clerical help in the two offices.

Hall announced his resignation unexpectedly on Aug. 4 at a Republican club meeting. When Hall did not bid for a new term, Willshaw was nominated on the GOP ticket to run for the mayor's post in the November general election.

The Democratic nominee is Robert Owen, an East End used car dealer who has served as First Ward councilman, Council president and safety-service director.

Court Delays Hearing In Fatal Mishap Case

EAST PALESTINE — A hearing for reckless operations filed against Joseph Franklin Taylor of Beaver Falls, driver of a car in which five of his family were killed July 31, was continued Thursday by Judge Herbert Arfman.

Taylor remained in Providence Hospital at Beaver Falls with injuries suffered in the crash and was unable to attend the scheduled hearing, officials said.

His wife, son, daughter, father-in-law and niece were killed when the car veered off Route 14, three miles west of the Pennsylvania line and rammed a tree.

USW Official Will Appear At Ambridge

AMBRIDGE, Pa. — Walter J. Burke of Milwaukee, secretary-treasurer of the United Steelworkers of America, will speak here Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

The site will be the Ambridge Borough Park, where Ambridge American Legion Post 341 will hold its annual picnic. The outing is for the benefit of the Veterans Day Parade, which will be held here Nov. 11.

Burke is one of several new national officers elected earlier this year. The veteran union man succeeded I. W. Abel, when the latter successfully won the presidency seat.

William McGarry, president of the American Bridge Co. Local 1270 USW-CIO, will be master of ceremonies. Mayor Walter Panek will give the welcome address.

Local and district union officials will be on hand to greet the national officer.

Assault Hearing Set

EAST PALESTINE — Edgar Derenberger of Lisbon R. D. 3 pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault before County Judge Herbert Arfman Thursday and his case was scheduled for a hearing Aug. 23. The charge was filed by Floyd Reynolds of Wellsville on behalf of his daughter, Margie, who is Derenberger's wife.

Driver Cited In 3-Vehicle 'Chain' Crash

A Chester driver and a LaCroft motorist escaped injury in a three-vehicle crash on Route 45, two miles north of Lisbon, early Thursday afternoon, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

William Gunn, 54, of 6th Ave., LaCroft, was cited as a result of the mishap which involved his car, one operated by Kenneth Lee Durbin, 24, of Phoenix Ave., Chester, and a truck driven by Rodney Ross, 48, of Salem.

Officers said all were headed south about 1:35 p.m. when Durbin began to pass Gunn. As Durbin's 1961 sedan was beside Gunn's 1962 sedan, Gunn pulled out to pass the truck driven by Ross head of him.

Gunn's car hit Durbin's car in the right rear, and Durbin lost control, his auto striking the side of the truck, causing Ross to lose control, the truck leaving the highway and hitting a tree.

Gunn was charged with failure to signal intent to pass.

Ex-Officer Fined $50 In Road Pursuit

A former city man and one-time Ohio Highway Patrolman, charged with speeding up to 100 miles an hour while pursued by a patrol cruiser was fined $50 and costs by County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine Thursday.

John R. Anderson, 26, of Pasadena, Calif., was cited Monday on the Y. & O. Rd., where he halted after the chase on Route 30.

Patrol officers said a cruiser man spotted Anderson headed south on Route 30 at a speed estimated at 85 miles an hour. The officer gave chase and said during the pursuit Anderson's car hit 100 miles an hour.

Anderson turned off at the Y. & O. Rd., the patrol said, and halted, telling the following patrolman he had been unaware he was being pursued.

Anderson, a graduate of the Patrol Academy who resigned after serving for a time, is working temporarily in Ohio. Judge Arfman suspended his driving rights for six months.

2 Motorists Charged

SALINEVILLE — Glenn Allen Stewart of Salineville R.D. 1 and Thomas E. Broyles of New Philadelphia were cited for stop sign violations Thursday night at Routes 39 and 164 by Deputy Marshal Gordon Sweeney. They are due hearings Aug. 26 before Mayor Stanley Fitch.

Board Of Health Acts To Fill Inspector Post

The Board of Health Thursday night temporarily suspended issuance of milk permits because of the lack of a qualified inspector and then took first steps toward filling the vacancy.

Acting on the advice of Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, the board decided to suspend the issuance of the permits temporarily. It has been without a milk inspector since the sudden death of Gene J. Smith, sanitarian, on Aug. 2.

The board also asked the Municipal Civil Service Commission for an eligibility list to appoint a successor.

—:—

IT ALSO approved a resolution of condolence to Mr. Smith's widow, Mrs. Helen Pyle Smith.

Jack Bonar, sanitarian, was appointed acting health commissioner for the purpose of signing any legal notices necessary.

Board members yesterday received copies of Common Pleas Judge Raymond Buzzard's decision ordering the board to issue a milk permit to Fairmont Foods Co. of Parkersburg, W. Va., and a check for $470 in fees was received from the concern last night.

No motion to grant Fairmont Foods a permit was made. Board members indicated no motion was needed since the board is under court order to issue the permit.

However, the motion at the July 29 meeting, when the board voted to reject Fairmont Foods' application, was amended to include a statement that the health department staff was short one man and the addition of Fairmont's 180-plus distributors would impose a serious problem for the milk inspector.

Minutes of the meeting showed only that the board had rejected the permit because of the excessive number of distributors in the city.

—:—

BOARD MEMBERS said technically that the milk inspector is required to inspect and approve each farm supplying milk to a distributor. They pointed out that Fairmont Foods planned to ship the milk from its Athens (Ohio) plant and its suppliers are located in that area.

A new law signed by Gov. James Rhodes and scheduled to go into effect within 90 days is expected to help alleviate the problem, board members said. The law permits a health district to establish reciprocal agreements with other health districts on milk inspections.

Board members also said there never was any intent to restrict or hamper free enterprise in East Liverpool and nothing ever was mentioned about protecting local industry.

Only three members attended last night's meeting — Dr. J. Keith Rugh, chairman, C. Frank Dales and Paul Zehnder. Dr. C. M. Mayberry and Ila Finney Johnston were absent.

In response to complaints from the Avondale St. area arising from the raising of white mice, Bill Bulger appeared before the board to explain that he will be a senior in college and is using the white mice in an experiment he is conducting. It will be completed within two weeks, he told the board.

Mrs. Luella Bevan, registrar of vital statistics, reported 52 males and 48 females born in the city between July 15 and Aug. 19. In the same period, she said 27 men, 25 women and two children died.

Bonar reported he made 16 milk inspections and two of the samples contained a high bacteria count and are being rechecked. He also listed 135 other inspections.

Miss Selma Ladzinske, public health nurse, reported 180 visits and investigations.

Hearing Continued

EAST PALESTINE — A hearing for John Joseph Jones of Columbiana R.D., charged with carrying a concealed weapon, was continued to Sept. 9 by Judge Herbert Arfman Thursday at the request of Jones' attorney. Jones, 31, was cited by East Palestine police when a revolver was found in his car.

Hiring Problems Aired Again For Hancock's Home

NEW CUMBERLAND — The employment situation at the Hancock County Children's Home was discussed again at a special meeting of the Court of Commissioners here Thursday night.

The meeting was called by James Finley, who serves as chairman of the Children's Home Board and as president of the County Court of Commissioners, as the result of a wage discussion conducted at Monday night's board meeting.

It was decided last night that the basic problem was not one of wages, but of finding persons who are willing to live at the home. Two matrons are being sought.

The present staff consists of Mrs. Mary Lancaster, supervisor, Mrs. Hazel Hannen, cook, and Mrs. Nevada Heffner, laundress.

Cleveland Man Killed When Auto Rams Pole

CLEVELAND (AP)— Murray Johnson, 22, of East Cleveland was killed when the car in which he was riding went out of control and rammed a utility pole here Thursday.

Johnson Advises 'Top Command' About Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has told the State Department high command that he wants "frank and private advice before decisions are made and unified support" afterward.

Reporting to newsmen on what he told Secretary Dean Rusk and his top aides at a State Department lunch Thursday, the President said he has had no reason to be disturbed about decisions not being carried out or a lack of unity on them.

Johnson said he invited discussions and suggestions, even dissension, prior to a decision—but afterward he expects "the entire government to pull in the same direction."

"There is an importance in unity in what we do and also in what we say," he said. "We don't like to play this game, that sometimes goes on in this town, of division."

"I said that any official who is in doubt of what our policy is ought to find out before he starts talking about it," he added.

Prevent the racing commission from requiring harness tracks to photograph races if wagering is less than $250,000 annually. None of Ohio's harness tracks reported wagering of more than $210,000 last year.

Make changes to bolster the hard-pressed state highway patrol retirement system. Member contributions will be increased from 5 to 7 per cent and state contributions from 5 to a top of 9 per cent of payrolls, starting Jan. 1. Pensions for widows or members will increase from $60 to $90 a month and to $280 a month for those with two children.

Provide for centralized or individual school district purchase of school buses under the lowest contract price available.

Revise procedures for administering school building assistance from the state.

Substitute the lieutenant governor for the attorney general on the Governor's Committee on Interstate Cooperation and make the Senate majority leader a member.

Other enactments awaiting gubernatorial action include a plan to increase the Ohio race track season from 44 to 50 days a year, create an Ohio thoroughbred racing fund to promote the thoroughbred industry in the state, tighten strip mining controls and establish a 15-member tax study commission.

Conneaut Sifts Move In Flag-Defacing Case

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP)—City officials were trying today to determine if any charges should be brought against a widow and a painter who used American flags as drop cloths while painting the woman's house.

Police confiscated the flags after complaints by neighbors. Walter E. Thayer, city solicitor, said the flags were 35 years old and faded. He called the incident unfortunate, adding: "I know they did not mean to deface the American flag. They respect it as much as any American."

Thayer said no paint fell on the flags which the widow gave the painter, a World War II veteran. The widow's husband was a World War I veteran. Thayer declined to name them.

Oswald's Widow, Husband Seeking Domestic Peace

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Agreeing to "try kindness, not threats," the former Marina Oswald and her second husband were attempting to iron out their domestic troubles today.

Justice of the Peace W.E. Richburg dismissed Thursday a peace bond she had sworn out against her husband of three months, Kenneth Jess Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter arrived separately but left together from a hearing before Richburg. Neither smiled as Richburg delivered a 15-minute lecture.

Marina, 24, is the widow of Lee Harvey Oswald, who assassinated President John F. Kennedy. She said it may "take time" for Porter and her to solve their problems.

Both told Richburg they would try to make the marriage last, and agreed to see a marriage counselor.

Richburg, 61, told the Porters:

"A burden has been placed on the people of this city (since the assassination) and this matter doesn't help it any.

"I know it's not your fault, but you're in a little different position than most people.

"Fear will destroy family life. Try kindness, not threats."

Johnson Under Attack About Defense Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of House Republicans accused President Johnson today of having juggled his original defense budget "in order to pave the way for Great Society spending and to keep the facade of a $100 billion budget."

The 16 GOP members of the Appropriations Committee said Johnson's recent request for an extra $1.7 billion for the Viet Nam war is a "meager beginning" on what will be needed.

They called for a review of all nondefense projects with an eye to cutting substantially the money requested to finance them.

Boy Faces Probation In Skull Fracture Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — A youth who fractured a city playground worker's skull with a East Side boy, was placed on probation and ordered to pay the worker's doctor bills and hospital costs.

The worker, Richard A. Depp, 17, a football player for John Adams High School, has been told not to play football this season. His coach, Louis Ralston, said the boy may lose a chance for a college scholarship because of the injury.

Depp's attacker, a 15-year-old East Side boy, was placed on probation Thursday by Judge Elaine J. Mayhew.

Dear Heloise: This may be old hat to some people, but I have never heard or read of anyone else using this idea:

My two upstairs bedrooms are the only rooms in which we use curtains that require stretching after washing, so it hardly seemed worthwhile to invest in curtain stretchers.

I unfold sheets, pin them on the rug (sticking the pins DOWN into the carpet), and pin the clean curtains onto the sheets. I stretch the curtains into shape as I pin.

They dry overnight and come out in perfect shape.

LYNNE.

DEAR FOLKS: Do you have an old, rusty cookie sheet? (Some do get that way, you know).

Don't throw it away, because it can be used for many things after covering it with adhesive-backed plastic paper. I did, and I just love it.

I can use it by pulling out a drawer and placing the cookie sheet across the drawer. This provided extra space, when needed, in my kitchen.

It's good to drain dishes on when I go camping.

It can be used as a bed tray. (I covered the back of it, too).

Sandwiches look neat on it when all the teen-agers drop in.

It's good for an outside hors d'oeuvres tray, or you can put piles of shredded lettuce, sliced tomatoes on it when you fry hamburgers. Also, those jars of mustard, catsup, spoons, etc., can be placed around the outside edge of the tray.

It's most sanitary for all uses.

If you have any ideas to supplement mine, write and tell us about them so we can help each other.

Bless you always.

DEAR HELOISE: I attached a paper towel holder to the under side of my picnic table, and use paper towels instead of napkins when eating outside. I don't have to worry about the wind blowing the napkins away.

Ohios' Guard Due Review By Governor

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes will review the nearly 9,500 men of the 37th Infantry Division Saturday as the Buckeye division winds up one of the most successful—and wet—first weeks of summer training in its history.

The annual governor's review climaxes a week of training that was dampened by rain Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, with temperatures in the 50s.

The division, most of which is spending the entire two weeks bivouacked in the far-flung regions of this sprawling camp, was to mass in the main camp area today to prepare for the review.

For many of the men, it will be the only time during the two weeks they will get in from the field.

Despite the rain, the division has turned in higher first-week ratings that it did last year when it ranked among the top Reserve and National Guard divisions in the nation.

Regular Army evaluators, who grade virtually every phase of training, awarded 1,241 superiors (highest possible) out of 2,227 ratings given the 97 units through Wednesday.

This compared with 827 superiors during the period last year.

The units also have received 941 excellents, 41 satisfactories, and only four unsatisfactories.

Division leaders are hoping that through high ratings again this year they can make the Pentagon sit up and take notice in any future attempts to reorganize the Reserve and Guard.

There are only five states in the United States which do not require a blood test to be made before marriage.

$360,000 Suit Filed Against Rubber Firm

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A $360,000 suit has been filed against the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. by Joseph Wiles, 33, of Massillon for injuries he claims he suffered in 1963 as a result of horseplay by one of the company's employes.

Wiles, a former employe of the Akron, Canton and Youngstown Railroad, said in the petitition filed Thursday that he was on a boxcar in the yards of Goodyear's No. 2 plant when a Goodyear employe threw a piece of hard rubber, striking him in the head and leg.

He said he fell from the freight car after being hit and suffered injuries resulting in partial loss of sight and hearing, numbness and loss of balance.

Senate Confirms Nomination

Celebrezze Will Become Federal Judge On Sept. 1

CLEVELAND (AP) — Anthony J. Celebrezze, an Italian immigrant of humble origin who became a political success as mayor of Cleveland, a state senator and a prominent U. S. Cabinet member, becomes a federal judge Sept. 1.

Celebrezze's nomination to the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati was confirmed by a Senate voice vote Thursday.

He was nominated for the judgeship by President Johnson after more than three years as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. Celebrezze, 54, was named to the Cabinet post July 31, 1962, by the late President John F. Kennedy.

He came to this country with his family at the age of two from the tiny village of Anzi in the mountains of Southern Italy, where he was born Sept. 4, 1910.

Cleveland's first foreign-born mayor received an informal education in a rough section of the East Side. He attended Central High School and Ohio Northern University in Ada, Ohio, for his formal education.

Before receiving his law degree in 1936, Celebrezze sold newspapers on a downtown street corner and had worked on a railroad section gang.

His first job after law school was with the legal department of the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation in Columbus. In 1939, he started private law practice.

Celebrezze was elected to the state Senate in 1959, and was regarded by his colleagues as an outstanding Democratic senator.

In 1953, then-State Frank D. Celebrezze, called a meeting of the large Celebrezze family and urged his younger brother to run for mayor of Cleveland.

Celebrezze defeated Republican William J. McDermott by more than 46,000 votes in the 1953 election and won re-election four times.

He was considered one of the city's most popular mayors, and his urban renewal project is regarded as his major achievement while in that position.

Ohios' Guard Due Review By Governor

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes will review the nearly 9,500 men of the 37th Infantry Division Saturday as the Buckeye division winds up one of the most successful—and wet—first weeks of summer training in its history.

For many of the men, it will be the only time during the two weeks they will get in from the field.

Despite the rain, the division has turned in higher first-week ratings that it did last year when it ranked among the top Reserve and National Guard divisions in the nation.

Regular Army evaluators, who grade virtually every phase of training, awarded 1,241 superiors (highest possible) out of 2,227 ratings given the 97 units through Wednesday.

This compared with 827 superiors during the period last year.

The units also have received 941 excellents, 41 satisfactories, and only four unsatisfactories.

Division leaders are hoping that through high ratings again this year they can make the Pentagon sit up and take notice in any future attempts to reorganize the Reserve and Guard.

There are only five states in the United States which do not require a blood test to be made before marriage.

$360,000 Suit Filed Against Rubber Firm

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A $360,000 suit has been filed against the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. by Joseph Wiles, 33, of Massillon for injuries he claims he suffered in 1963 as a result of horseplay by one of the company's employes.

Wiles, a former employe of the Akron, Canton and Youngstown Railroad, said in the petitition filed Thursday that he was on a boxcar in the yards of Goodyear's No. 2 plant when a Goodyear employe threw a piece of hard rubber, striking him in the head and leg.

He said he fell from the freight car after being hit and suffered injuries resulting in partial loss of sight and hearing, numbness and loss of balance.

Kiwanis Hears Talk By Roberts

Mental Clinic's Service Outlined

Understanding, sympathy and acceptance of those with mental illnesses was urged by Donald Roberts, administrator of Columbiana County's Mental Clinic, at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Roberts, of Youngstown, described the work of the Lisbon clinic and the attitudes of patients and the public concerning mental illness during the meeting at the Travelers Hotel.

He said the clinic is one of five in Ohio which is operated solely on local funds, without state support. He said certain operating requests set by the state restricted the clinic and it is able to provide adequate service with part time and volunteer staffers.

—:—

AT PRESENT, two psychiatrists, a psychologist and four caseworkers along with volunteer aides are operating the clinic, providing psychiatric and psychological services and therapy.

"Why are so many people reluctant to recognize the mental health problem?" he asked.

The providing of a cast for a broken arm is a known and reliable cure for a fracture, he went on. But the uncertainty of the nature of a mental illness and the means of relieving it have brought apprehension and fear about the problem.

Motivation and change are the key words in the clinic's program, Roberts said, pointing out a person has to be motivated to come for examination and treatment before there can be a successful answer to his problem.

He said some people recognize their need and come voluntarily. Others are referred by ministers, court officials, doctors or relatives.

ROBERTS SAID after the problems are discussed, a therapy approach is undertaken with an effort to change the patient's attitude toward his environment.

"But in too many cases, the patient is not motivated to want to change; he doesn't seek readjustment, and we sometimes lose them. If they don't want treatment, we can't force it. The motivation must be there."

The public reluctance to accept mental illness as a natural consequence of stress was discussed by Roberts, who said many people are repelled by such deviation from normal conduct.

"If we see someone hurt in an auto accident, we run out of our way to aid them, get them treatment and sympathize with them. But if we know of someone with a mental problem, we shy away from them, put them in institutions and ignore them."

Roberts said everyone has some kind of neuroses and everyone has the capacity to become a victim of mental illness under stress.

"We have to become more aware of our responsibility to these people who cannot adjust to reality."

"We consider the clinic as a sort of halfway house between the hospital and home, hoping to keep a patient from going to a hospital or serving as a step after he leaves the hospital," he went on.

"The clinic is designed to help the patient if he wants to get along with his neighbors and society."

Roberts said he was not discussing the psychotic individual who becomes involved in violent emotional crimes, but only those people who have become disorganized and need assistance to work out their problems.

"Our attitudes to them have not been fair. They have rights and we should try to give them these rights along with understanding, sympathy and acceptance."

Iowa Governor Calls Guard As Trouble Looms At Fair

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gov. Harold Hughes has called out National Guard units because of rumors that "everything from civil demonstrations to riots" might occur at today's opening of the Iowa State Fair.

Hughes' action came after a conference Thursday night with law enforcement officers and state officials.

There have been no incidents, but Hughes said rumors of imminent trouble "have snowballed faster than anything I ever saw."

He declined "for security reasons" to give the number of Guardsmen or other forces to be used.

Iowa has not experienced civil rights demonstrations such as have occurred in other states, but an estimated 500 youths rioted last July 4th at the Arnolds Park resort when taverns closed.

Hughes gave few details on why he called out the National Guard. He told newsmen that racial matters entered into the rumors. He said some undesirable persons from Omaha, Neb., and Chicago were seen in the area. Responsible civil rights organizations are in no way involved, he said.

He directed Junior Miller, state adjutant general, to order into active service such elements of the Iowa National Guard "as are necessary to enforce the laws of the State of Iowa and as are necessary to protect life and property therein, and to prevent breaches of peace or the imminent danger thereof."

Immediately after the conference, law enforcement officials visited the fairgrounds, conferred there, and then moved to nearby Camp Dodge where the National Guard is headquartered.

The fairgrounds covers an area of about eight square blocks on the East Side. It has a maze of streets winding among the various buildings. Many of the buildings are of wood.

Senior Citizens Hold Rehearsal For County Fair

The Kitchen Band, men's chorus and mixed chorus of the Senior Citizens Group took part in the program at a meeting of the group Thursday afternoon at the parish hall of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in participation for a performance at the County Fair in Lisbon Aug. 27.

Senior Citizens Day will be observed that day and the local group is scheduled to make an appearance at 11:30 a. m. The members will leave the bus terminal at 9:30 a. m.

The men's chorus sang "How Great Thou Art" and the mixed chorus "How Long Has It Been."

The Rev. D. Ross Salisbury, rector of the church, discussed "Adjustment to Life Through Prayer."

Mrs. Martha Glass, queen for the day, received a corsage.

Mrs. Eunice Hogenfeld and committee served lunch to 165, including eight visitors.

The next meeting will be Thursday when final reservations will be taken for the Ice Capades in September.

Crucible Aide Develops Way For Recovering Acid, Iron

PITTSBURGH — A Crucible Steel Co. scientist, J. S. Poliskin, has suggested a practical way to handle much of the several hundred million gallons of weak acid liquors generated yearly by America's steel industry.

Crucible is making this process available to the industry without charge.

The problem has become more acute in recent years as the volume of waste acid liquor has increased and the industry has been hard pressed to find acceptable and economical ways to reuse or dispose of the material.

Most of the industry's waste acid liquor results from pickling steel in a dilute acid solution to remove surface scale. During pickling, the iron salts in the solution increase in strength and the acid content decreases until the pickle liquor is spent, or no longer effective, and must be replaced. The ideal disposal process would economically recover all the acid for reuse and all the iron to make steel.

The Crucible scientist's process for treating this waste solution is based on an ion exchange followed by a high-temperature, high-pressure operation.

Since substantially all the iron and acid are recovered for reuse, there is no disposal problem. Cation exchange resins are used to remove the iron and turn the liquor back into an acid solution. Then the iron is recovered from the resin as iron nitrate solution. Iron oxide powder is precipitated from this liquid by heating it above 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

While a number of processes have been developed for disposing of waste pickle liquor, few of them approach the ideal of being inexpensive to install and operate and being able to recover the metal and acid content.

Poliskin's new Crucible process is practical over a broad range of conditions, but its economic benefits in a specific situation depend upon many factors. These include concentrations of iron and other constituents in the spent pickle liquor, prices of the recovered materials, the total volume of the liquor to be treated, and the cost of other available methods of handling the solutions.

A technical paper on the new process was presented by Poliskin at the American Chemical Society's recent meeting in Detroit.

The barometer is used to measure air pressure.

New Regime Seeks End Of Greek Crisis

ATHENS (AP)—Premier Elias Tsirimokos and his Cabinet were sworn in today in a new attempt to end Greece's grave political crisis.

Ten of the 14 members of the new Cabinet had bolted from former Premier George Papandreou's Center Union party earlier today. But Tsirimokos, a former left-wing Socialist, was believed to be still slightly short of a majority in Parliament.

The Cabinet was not complete. Reliable sources said the 58-year-old premier would complete it if he receives a vote of confidence from the 300-member Parliament next week. He was expected to go before Parliament Monday or Tuesday.

The swearing-in ceremony before King Constantine had been postponed twice in the last 24 hours. The delay, coming after a renewal Thursday night of rioting in Athens, heightened tension in the crisis-ridden NATO nation.

Several thousand of Papandreou's youthful supporters battled police during a demonstration against Tsirimokos and the king. It was the first major outbreak of violence since July 21.

Papandreou, whom the 25-year-old king fired July 15 in a dispute over control of the armed forces, said he would begin a tour of the provinces Saturday to enlighten the people on the "attempts of the royal palace to set up a moribund government against the people's will."

Golfers will tee off between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Dinner is scheduled at 7:30 p.m., preceded by a cocktail hour. Presentation of golf awards will be one of the highlights of the dinner program.

It will be the section's first meeting since May, when it closed the 1964-65 season with a "ladies night" program.

The Wildwood Country Club is off Sample Rd. in Allison Park.

McNamara Says Strike By B52s Costs $1 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told senators that a strike by 30 B52 long-range bombers against Communists in the Viet Nam jungles costs about $1 million.

"In a sense," McNamara told a Senate hearing Aug. 4, "$1 million is small in relation to the risk we are running with this operation in Southeast Asia, and we think we are warranted in experimenting with the $1 million a strike to see what we can accomplish."

Heavily censored copies of his testimony have been distributed to senators in advance of next week's debate on the $46.7 billion defense money bill.

The jungle strikes have disrupted Viet Cong bases, communications and supplies.

Lausche, Young Again Cast Opposite Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's two Democratic U.S. senators cast opposite votes as the Senate approved, 61 to 29, Thursday the $1.65 billion second year authorization for the war on poverty.

McNamara Says Strike By B52s Costs $1 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told senators that a strike by 30 B52 long-range bombers against Communists in the Viet Nam jungles costs about $1 million.

"In a sense," McNamara told a Senate hearing Aug. 4, "$1 million is small in relation to the risk we are running with this operation in Southeast Asia, and we think we are warranted in experimenting with the $1 million a strike to see what we can accomplish."

Heavily censored copies of his testimony have been distributed to senators in advance of next week's debate on the $46.7 billion defense money bill.

92 Report For Football Here . . .

One of the largest turnouts for football at East Liverpool High School greeted Coach Bob McNea this morning at Patterson Field as Ohio schoolboys offically opened practice today.

The squad is being divided into two groups, a sophomore outfit numbering about 40 and the remainder varsity candidates.

Each group will practice twice a day, meaning four practice sessions per day at the West End gridiron until school opens.

The number was swelled by several juniors and seniors who are trying football for the first time, McNea reported.

Now injuries have cropped up again and Allen has been sitting on the bench the last few weeks at Denver with a pulled leg muscle. The recent injury has nothing to do with his knee. He pulled the muscle while legging out a triple.

It's a tough break for Allen, since the Twins seem well on their way to the pennant this season after finishing behind the Yanks in two previous campaigns when he was well.

An outside chance still remains that Bernie could be eligible for the Series and also that he will get some share of the money if the Twins should go all the way.

He probably won't be voted a full share of the Seriesmelon, but is almost certain to gain two-thirds of a share. The players vote on the shares.

Bernie saw only limited action for the Twins this season, but did start at third base and second base for one week. He was used as a pinch hitter in several games and produced some timely blows before being shipped back to Denver.

The Twins have tried several rookies at second and currently are using Jerry Kindall.

Bernie could be eligible for the fall classic if the Twins put him on the roster by Sept. 3. The Pacific Coast League season ends on Sept. 5 and he may be called up at that time if he can bounce back from his most recent injury.

Cardenas' Homer Gives Reds Edge

The Review Sports
FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1965 PAGE 16

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Maloney kept the Chicago Cubs in the weeds long enough for Leo Cardenas to put him in a garden of roses.

Maloney, who ran into a thorny problem in his first no-hitter this season, made it through his second one without a scratch as Cincinnati edged the Cubs 1-0 in 10 innings in the opener of a doubleheader Thursday.

The 25-year-old right-hander gained three distinctions with his feat — he became the first pitcher in major league history to pitch two extra-inning no-hitters, only the third to win an extra-inning no-hitter and only the fourth to pitch two no-hitters in one season.

All that after Chicago catcher Ed Bailey assured Maloney in the seventh inning that he wouldn't hold the Cubs hitless. When Maloney came to bat, Bailey told him:

"You look pretty good, but we've got someone hiding in the weeds who will knock it out of the park on you."

"You might be right," the fireballing ace answered. "It wouldn't surprise me at all after what has happened before."

Maloney referred to his June 14 performance against the New York Mets. In that one, he pitched hitless ball for 10 innings only to have Johnny Lewis lead off the 11th with a home run that handed Maloney a 1-0 loss.

This time, though, the game didn't reach the 11th. After Maloney chopped down the Cubs, weeds and all, through nine innings, Cardenas came up against Larry Jackson with one out in the 10th and rapped a home run against the left field foul pole.

It was — but for the Cubs.

In other NL games the Los Angeles Dodgers regained first place by defeating San Francisco 8-5 in 15 innings, Milwaukee dropped to second, one half game out, by losing to St. Louis 5-4 and the Cubs edged the Reds in the nightcap 5-4.

The Dodgers moved back into the lead with a three-run rally in the 15th inning. Lou Johnson slammed a two-run homer off Gaylord Perry, and consecutive singles by Wes Parker, Willie Davis and John Roseboro brought in another run. Tom Haller's two-out, two-run homer off Don Drysdale in the ninth pulled the Giants into a 5-5 tie.

Four Milwaukee errors helped St. Louis end the Braves' winning streak at six. Ray Sadecki and Lou Brock scored in the third on errors by pitcher Ken Johnson and Gene Oliver. In the fourth Ken Boyer reached first when Denis Menke bobbled his grounder and eventually came home on Woody Woodward's bad throw.

Patterson, McLaren Win In Ladies Golf

Mrs. Robert Patterson turned in low gross of 46-46-92 and Mrs. J. R. McLaren had low net of 101-31-70 in the 18-hole medal play which featured women's golf Wednesday at the Country Club.

Putting in the first division went to Mrs. Gordon Weese with 32.

The second division, nine hole play was won by Mrs. Art Doak with low gross of 58 while net was taken by Mrs. Okey Ludwig with 61-19-42.

Mrs. Ludwig also won putting with 17.

Hail To All Favored In Travers Run

By The Associated Press

Hail to All,, who has done little of late to further his bid for the 3-year-old title, gets another chance Saturday in America's oldest horse race — the 96th running of the $75,000-added Travers at Saratoga.

Off the performances Mrs. Ben Cohen's stretch-running colt showed in winning the Jersey Derby and Belmont Stakes, there doesn't appear to be anything in the 1¼ miles of the Travers capable of giving the son of Hail to Reason a serious argument.

But Hail to All was supposed to have had the one mile of the Saranac and the 1¼ miles of the Dwyer at his mercy last month at Aqueduct only to wind up third both times. La Cima won the Saranac and Staunchess took the Dwyer.

Staunchess, winner of all three starts since being claimed for $25,000, is slated to be in the Travers field, which probably will number 10, along with First Family, who set most of the pace in the Belmont before winding up third. With 10 starters the Travers will be worth $85,100 with $55,315 going to the winner.

Maloney Issues 10 Walks On Way To No-Hit Game

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Reds, haunted by memories of being robbed of no-hit pitching victories, finally broke the spell and got one.

It could be the sloppiest no-hitter in baseball history.

In Thursday's first game of a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs, the strapping, 25-year-old right-hander hurled a 1-0 no-hit triumph in 10 innings.

Using what the trade calls a quick fast ball and a sharp breaking curve, Maloney struck out 12. But he issued 10 bases on balls and also hit a batter. The 10 walks were the most ever issued by a pitcher in a no-hitter.

He threw a staggering total of 187 pitches and 15 times had a full 3-and-2 count on the batters.

It even looked as if the luckless Maloney might pitch a no-hitter but lose. However, Chico Cardenas' home run off Larry Jackson's first pitch — a belt-high slider — sealed victory in the 10th. The ball caromed off the left field foul pole, staying fair at odds of about 1,000 to 1.

Lou Johnson slammed a two-run homer off Gaylord Perry, and consecutive singles by Wes Parker, Willie Davis and John Roseboro brought in another run. Tom Haller's two-out, two-run homer off Don Drysdale in the ninth pulled the Giants into a 5-5 tie.

Four Milwaukee errors helped St. Louis end the Braves' winning streak at six. Ray Sadecki and Lou Brock scored in the third on errors by pitcher Ken Johnson and Gene Oliver. In the fourth Ken Boyer reached first when Denis Menke bobbled his grounder and eventually came home on Woody Woodward's bad throw.

Sign Had One Catch: Was On 'Foreign' Car

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — They're talking up the chances of the Minnesota Twins to win the American League pennant, so it wasn't surprising to see a car here Thursday with a bumper sign, "Welcome World Series visitors."

Only catch was, it had Michigan license plates.

Hail To All Favored In Travers Run

By The Associated Press

Hail to All,, who has done little of late to further his bid for the 3-year-old title, gets another chance Saturday in America's oldest horse race — the 96th running of the $75,000-added Travers at Saratoga.

Off the performances Mrs. Ben Cohen's stretch-running colt showed in winning the Jersey Derby and Belmont Stakes, there doesn't appear to be anything in the 1¼ miles of the Travers capable of giving the son of Hail to Reason a serious argument.

But Hail to All was supposed to have had the one mile of the Saranac and the 1¼ miles of the Dwyer at his mercy last month at Aqueduct only to wind up third both times. La Cima won the Saranac and Staunchess took the Dwyer.

Staunchess, winner of all three starts since being claimed for $25,000, is slated to be in the Travers field, which probably will number 10, along with First Family, who set most of the pace in the Belmont before winding up third. With 10 starters the Travers will be worth $85,100 with $55,315 going to the winner.

Maloney Issues 10 Walks On Way To No-Hit Game

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Reds, haunted by memories of being robbed of no-hit pitching victories, finally broke the spell and got one.

It could be the sloppiest no-hitter in baseball history.

In Thursday's first game of a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs, the strapping, 25-year-old right-hander hurled a 1-0 no-hit triumph in 10 innings.

Using what the trade calls a quick fast ball and a sharp breaking curve, Maloney struck out 12. But he issued 10 bases on balls and also hit a batter. The 10 walks were the most ever issued by a pitcher in a no-hitter.

He threw a staggering total of 187 pitches and 15 times had a full 3-and-2 count on the batters.

It even looked as if the luckless Maloney might pitch a no-hitter but lose. However, Chico Cardenas' home run off Larry Jackson's first pitch — a belt-high slider — sealed victory in the 10th. The ball caromed off the left field foul pole, staying fair at odds of about 1,000 to 1.

Twins Take Pair From Tigers For 8½-Game Margin

★ ★ ★

Grant Gains 16th Mound Decision

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the spirit of that old ditty, "Spahn and Sain, then pray for rain," you could wrap up the Minnesota Twin pitching situation these days by singing, "Mudcat and Kitty have Sam sittin' pretty."

Mudcat is Jim Grant, whose five-hitter in the first game Thursday gave the Twins an 8-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Kitty is Jim Kaat, who completed the sweep with a 2-1 six-hitter in the nightcap.

And Sam is Minnesota Manager Mele, whose Twins lead the American League race by 8½ games and look more like the genuine article each day.

Grant, who suffered through a tough spring, has taken over as the ace of Mele's pitching staff. The five-hitter Thursday was his 16th victory of the season and no other American League pitcher has that many.

Mudcat credits his success this season with the Twins' pitching coach, Johnny Sain, who, incidentally, was the fellow in the second half of the ditty the Boston Braves hummed on their way to the 1948 National League pennant.

Kaat, a 17-game winner last season, picked up his 12th victory in the nightcap. It was his sixth victory in the last eight decisions and lowered his earned run average to 2.68.

In the only other American League games played Thursday, New York topped Los Angeles 3-1 and Boston ripped Baltimore 11-3.

Sandy Valdespino's pinch single in the eighth inning drove home Zoilo Versalles with the run Kaat needed to beat the Tigers in the nightcap. Don Mincher's three-run homer made it easy for Grant in the opener.

Mel Stottlemyre scattered eight hits and won his 15th of the year for the Yankees. Clete Boyer tagged his 13th homer and New York again moved one game over .500. Marcellino Lopez, 0-4 against the Yankees this season, was the Los Angeles loser.

The Orioles dropped into a three-way tie for third place, nine games off Minnesota's pace and one half game behind Chicago as Jim Lonborg pitched a six-hitter for the Red Sox.

Lee Thomas drove in four runs with a single and a triple and Felix Mantilla and Lonborg knocked in two apiece.

LAST YEAR'S WEST VIRGINIA Derby Queen Miss Anita Carol Ludovici (right) of Chester is shown placing the crown on the 1965 queen Miss Patricia Leber of Clinton. Miss Leber will reign over the West Virginia Derby Saturday night at Waterford Park. Nine horses are entered in the Derby for the added purse of $7,500.

Vikings Out To Extend Exhibition Win String

By The Associated Press

Metropolitan Stadium in Minnesota tries out its newly-expanded football arrangement with 12,000 extra seats available for tonight's National Football League exhibition game between the Vikings and the Philadelphia Eagles.

The seats won't be the only things making a debut in the park.

Minnesota skipper Norm Van Brocklin, who calls his rambling, scrambling regular quarterback, Fran Tarkenton, the best signal caller in pro football, will start understudy Ron VanderKelen against the Eagles.

That's significant because the last time the Vikings lost a preseason exhibition was in 1963 against the same Eagles and it came in VanderKelen's pro debut.

Minnesota has won six straight since then but you can bet Van Brocklin would trade all those exhibition victories for a couple during the regular season.

The Vikings, who beat Pittsburgh in Atlanta's new stadium last week, figure to be one of the favorites in the Western Division race to catch defending NFL champion Baltimore. The Colts, who beat St. Louis in their exhibition opener last week, face another Western contender, Detroit, in tonight's other game.

The American League moves into action Saturday with three games scheduled. The New York Jets play defending champion Buffalo at New Brunswick, N.J.; Boston is at Houston and San Diego at Denver. NFL games Saturday include Chicago at Green Bay, Dallas at San Francisco and St. Louis at Washington.

On Sunday, Kansas City plays at Oakland in the American League and Cleveland is at Los Angeles while New York plays Pittsburgh at New Haven, Conn., in NFL contests.

Browns Plan To Use No. 1 Draft Choice

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—The Cleveland Browns will take the wraps off their top draft choice when the National Football League champs play the Los Angeles Rams in an exhibition game Sunday.

Jim Garcia, a 6-foot-5, 245-pound defensive end, is ready for action after being sidelined with the flu and a knee injury.

"I don't think he'll start, but we plan to use Jim at left defensive end and also on some of the speciality teams," said Coach Blanton Collier. "I'm anxious to get a look at him. Eventually we plan to work him at both ends. For the present he's learning at the left side."

Garcia, as a member of the College All-Stars, was in the game long enough against the Browns to flatten quarterback Frank Ryan once. But he came down with the flu, a sore throat and injured his knee and didn't get to play when the Browns beat the San Francisco 49ers, 37-21, last week.

Collier does have a list of walking wounded, however. Defensive back Walter Beach has a sore back and Dale Lindsey, the new middle linebacker, sustained an elbow injury. Lowell Caylor, recently shifted to flanker, has a groin injury.

Big Money May Figure In Battle Of Amateurs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ross Bass, D-Tenn., said today he believes the scent of future big money earnings figures in the row now disrupting U. S. track and field affairs.

Bass said he would pursue the thought with Bud Wilkinson and other sports notables in this fifth day of a Senate investigation of the row. He said he doesn't claim it's the only factor but does believe it contributes to the attitudes of the embattled National Collegiate Athletic Association and the American Athletic Union.

The committee listed Delaney Kiphuth, Yale University athletic director; Asa Bushnell, U. S. Olympic Committee secretary, and M.E. (Bill) Easton, president of the Track Coaches Association as other witnesses.

Easton left his job as track coach at the University of Kansas last spring after a hassle with the athletic department over costs of the track program.

Wilkinson is the former coach and athletic director at Oklahoma and former head of the government's physical fitness program.

Under chairmanship of Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., the committee is trying to learn what's at the root of the NCAA-AAU row, and whether it can be settled permanently without enacting legislation which neither side would be likely to relish.

The Senators received suggestions from a panel of sports editors Thursday. One proposal was for creation of a superfederation to take over and relegate both NCAA and AAU to back seats in the control of open track and field events leading up to the selection of the U. S. teams for international competition.

Rain Washes Out Play In World Golf

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — George Archer thought luck was with him for a few hours until rain washed out the first round of the Carling World Golf Championship and his four-under-par 67.

Archer was enthusiastic Thursday after posting one of his best rounds but, for obvious reasons, receiving word of the third postponement of the year in a Professional Golfers Association tourney put him in a gloomy frame of mind.

Other rounds washed out by a heavy thundershower in early evening were 68s by Gene Littler and Homero Blancas and a 69 by longtime British Ryder Cupper Christy O'Connor of Ireland.

Bunched at 70 were Champagne Tony Lema, Mike Souchak, Jacky Cupit, Bob Zimmerman and Kermit Zarley.

The 25-year-old Archer, a sophomore on the pro tour, said he found the 6,713-yard Pleasant Valley Course to his liking.

"If there is a course best suited to me," he said, "this may be it. The driving is important but putting is the real key."

Dave Marr, winner of the PGA Championship last week, had a 73 along with Peter Thompson, five-time British Open champion, and Arnold Palmer.

PITCHING — Jim Maloney, Cincinnati, pitched his second 10-inning no-hitter of the season, becoming the first man in major league history to hurl two extra-inning no-hitters, as the Reds beat the Chicago Cubs 1-0 in the opener of a doubleheader.

BATTING — Leo Cardenas, Cincinnati, hit a 10th-inning home run that gave the Reds a 1-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs behind Jim Maloney's second no-hitter.

Atlanta To Get Last Crack At 1st Place Jets

Atlanta gets what may be its final opportunity for an International League pennant when it meets first-place Columbus in a four-game series this weekend.

Toledo blasted Atlanta 10-5 Thursday, pushing the Crackers 4½ games behind Columbus.

A six - run third inning in which Toledo managed only four hits sank the Crackers, a pair of errors playing a major role.

In other games, Columbus squeezed past Jacksonville 7-6 and Toronto blanked Rochester 5-0.

A two-out single in the ninth by Pancho Herrero drove home the winning run for Columbus after Jerry May's two-run homer had tied the score in the eighth.

Twins Take Pair From Tigers For 8½-Game Margin

★ ★ ★

Grant Gains 16th Mound Decision

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the spirit of that old ditty, "Spahn and Sain, then pray for rain," you could wrap up the Minnesota Twin pitching situation these days by singing, "Mudcat and Kitty have Sam sittin' pretty."

Mudcat is Jim Grant, whose five-hitter in the first game Thursday gave the Twins an 8-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Kitty is Jim Kaat, who completed the sweep with a 2-1 six-hitter in the nightcap.

And Sam is Minnesota Manager Mele, whose Twins lead the American League race by 8½ games and look more like the genuine article each day.

Grant, who suffered through a tough spring, has taken over as the ace of Mele's pitching staff. The five-hitter Thursday was his 16th victory of the season and no other American League pitcher has that many.

Mudcat credits his success this season with the Twins' pitching coach, Johnny Sain, who, incidentally, was the fellow in the second half of the ditty the Boston Braves hummed on their way to the 1948 National League pennant.

Kaat, a 17-game winner last season, picked up his 12th victory in the nightcap. It was his sixth victory in the last eight decisions and lowered his earned run average to 2.68.

In the only other American League games played Thursday, New York topped Los Angeles 3-1 and Boston ripped Baltimore 11-3.

Sandy Valdespino's pinch single in the eighth inning drove home Zoilo Versalles with the run Kaat needed to beat the Tigers in the nightcap. Don Mincher's three-run homer made it easy for Grant in the opener.

Mel Stottlemyre scattered eight hits and won his 15th of the year for the Yankees. Clete Boyer tagged his 13th homer and New York again moved one game over .500. Marcellino Lopez, 0-4 against the Yankees this season, was the Los Angeles loser.

The Orioles dropped into a three-way tie for third place, nine games off Minnesota's pace and one half game behind Chicago as Jim Lonborg pitched a six-hitter for the Red Sox.

Lee Thomas drove in four runs with a single and a triple and Felix Mantilla and Lonborg knocked in two apiece.

LAST YEAR'S WEST VIRGINIA Derby Queen Miss Anita Carol Ludovici (right) of Chester is shown placing the crown on the 1965 queen Miss Patricia Leber of Clinton. Miss Leber will reign over the West Virginia Derby Saturday night at Waterford Park. Nine horses are entered in the Derby for the added purse of $7,500.

Big Money May Figure In Battle Of Amateurs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ross Bass, D-Tenn., said today he believes the scent of future big money earnings figures in the row now disrupting U. S. track and field affairs.

Bass said he would pursue the thought with Bud Wilkinson and other sports notables in this fifth day of a Senate investigation of the row. He said he doesn't claim it's the only factor but does believe it contributes to the attitudes of the embattled National Collegiate Athletic Association and the American Athletic Union.

The committee listed Delaney Kiphuth, Yale University athletic director; Asa Bushnell, U. S. Olympic Committee secretary, and M.E. (Bill) Easton, president of the Track Coaches Association as other witnesses.

Easton left his job as track coach at the University of Kansas last spring after a hassle with the athletic department over costs of the track program.

Wilkinson is the former coach and athletic director at Oklahoma and former head of the government's physical fitness program.

Under chairmanship of Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., the committee is trying to learn what's at the root of the NCAA-AAU row, and whether it can be settled permanently without enacting legislation which neither side would be likely to relish.

The Senators received suggestions from a panel of sports editors Thursday. One proposal was for creation of a superfederation to take over and relegate both NCAA and AAU to back seats in the control of open track and field events leading up to the selection of the U. S. teams for international competition.

Vikings Out To Extend Exhibition Win String

By The Associated Press

Metropolitan Stadium in Minnesota tries out its newly-expanded football arrangement with 12,000 extra seats available for tonight's National Football League exhibition game between the Vikings and the Philadelphia Eagles.

The seats won't be the only things making a debut in the park.

Minnesota skipper Norm Van Brocklin, who calls his rambling, scrambling regular quarterback, Fran Tarkenton, the best signal caller in pro football, will start understudy Ron VanderKelen against the Eagles.

That's significant because the last time the Vikings lost a preseason exhibition was in 1963 against the same Eagles and it came in VanderKelen's pro debut.

Minnesota has won six straight since then but you can bet Van Brocklin would trade all those exhibition victories for a couple during the regular season.

The Vikings, who beat Pittsburgh in Atlanta's new stadium last week, figure to be one of the favorites in the Western Division race to catch defending NFL champion Baltimore. The Colts, who beat St. Louis in their exhibition opener last week, face another Western contender, Detroit, in tonight's other game.

The American League moves into action Saturday with three games scheduled. The New York Jets play defending champion Buffalo at New Brunswick, N.J.: Boston is at Houston and San Diego at Denver. NFL games Saturday include Chicago at Green Bay, Dallas at San Francisco and St. Louis at Washington.

On Sunday, Kansas City plays at Oakland in the American League and Cleveland is at Los Angeles while New York plays Pittsburgh at New Haven, Conn., in NFL contests.

Rain Washes Out Play In World Golf

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — George Archer thought luck was with him for a few hours until rain washed out the first round of the Carling World Golf Championship and his four-under-par 67.

Archer was enthusiastic Thursday after posting one of his best rounds but, for obvious reasons, receiving word of the third postponement of the year in a Professional Golfers Association tourney put him in a gloomy frame of mind.

Other rounds washed out by a heavy thundershower in early evening were 68s by Gene Littler and Homero Blancas and a 69 by longtime British Ryder Cupper Christy O'Connor of Ireland.

Bunched at 70 were Champagne Tony Lema, Mike Souchak, Jacky Cupit, Bob Zimmerman and Kermit Zarley.

The 25-year-old Archer, a sophomore on the pro tour, said he found the 6,713-yard Pleasant Valley Course to his liking.

"If there is a course best suited to me," he said, "this may be it. The driving is important but putting is the real key."

Dave Marr, winner of the PGA Championship last week, had a 73 along with Peter Thompson, five-time British Open champion, and Arnold Palmer.

PITCHING — Jim Maloney, Cincinnati, pitched his second 10-inning no-hitter of the season, becoming the first man in major league history to hurl two extra-inning no-hitters, as the Reds beat the Chicago Cubs 1-0 in the opener of a doubleheader.

BATTING — Leo Cardenas, Cincinnati, hit a 10th-inning home run that gave the Reds a 1-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs behind Jim Maloney's second no-hitter.

Browns Plan To Use No. 1 Draft Choice

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—The Cleveland Browns will take the wraps off their top draft choice when the National Football League champs play the Los Angeles Rams in an exhibition game Sunday.

Jim Garcia, a 6-foot-5, 245-pound defensive end, is ready for action after being sidelined with the flu and a knee injury.

"I don't think he'll start, but we plan to use Jim at left defensive end and also on some of the speciality teams," said Coach Blanton Collier. "I'm anxious to get a look at him. Eventually we plan to work him at both ends. For the present he's learning at the left side."

Garcia, as a member of the College All-Stars, was in the game long enough against the Browns to flatten quarterback Frank Ryan once. But he came down with the flu, a sore throat and injured his knee and didn't get to play when the Browns beat the San Francisco 49ers, 37-21, last week.

Collier does have a list of walking wounded, however. Defensive back Walter Beach has a sore back and Dale Lindsey, the new middle linebacker, sustained an elbow injury. Lowell Caylor, recently shifted to flanker, has a groin injury.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if I am crazy or just "behind the times" as my husband insists.

We both work and have excellent jobs. I wanted children but it appears we will never have any. Three months ago my husband and I moved into a flat which I felt was too expensive. He said we'd manage the rent by taking in a roomer—someone he had known for a long time. Well, the "someone" was an old boy friend of mine.

The "roomer" makes passes at me right in front of my husband. He doesn't say a word—just walks into the other room. I'm beginning to think the two of them had an understanding that I go with the rent.

Last Sunday the roomer brought an attractive young girl to the house. She took a shine to my husband and the two of them decided to go for a walk. The roomer followed me into the pantry and I nearly brained him with a jar of pickled peaches.

This morning my husband and I had a big argument. He says I'm square and this is the way half the world lives. I need your help.—B. WILDERED.

-:-

Dear B.: His estimate is high, in my opinion, but if he wants to live like that half tell him to move out and take the roomer with him. Otherwise he'd better give the roomer one week to find another place.

In the meantime run an ad for a nice, mind-your-own-business type school teacher.

Disappointed Mother

Dear Ann: My oldest son married a girl who was a disappointment to us. He could have had any young woman in town (a judge's daughter included) but I'm sure Rene (not her real name) attracted my son with her worldly ways. (She is French.)

Last week Rene gave birth to a baby boy. Her husband did not want the child to be named after him as he has always deplored the confusion of juniors. I thought surely they would name the baby after my husband who died last year. But no, Rene insisted on naming the child after my younger son. I always suspected Rene had her eye on him and now I'm sure.

I'm afraid my older son is blind to this and it is making a nervous wreck out of me. How long can a mother remain silent? — BROKEN-HEARTED MOM.

-:-

Dear Mom: You'd better remain silent permanently unless you've got better evidence than you presented in your letter. Merely because Rene wanted to name the baby after your younger son doesn't mean she has her eye on him.

I think you have too much spare time on your hands, Mom. Why don't you do some volunteer work for the Red Cross?

One Ear Trump-et

Dear Ann: I'm a widow, 53, with three grown children. We all live here in Johannesburg, South Africa.

I have a dear friend who is 73. He has been my faithful bridge partner for many years. This is not a romance—Jack is strictly a card companion and nothing more. The problem is that Jack is getting awfully deaf. He misses important bids and spoils the game for everyone. Last week he didn't hear my three no trump and went off on the wildest tangent imaginable.

Who should tackle Jack about his deafness? He has a daughter whom he sees about once a week. She must be aware of it. Some hard of hearing folks ignore their deafness in the hope that others will not notice.

Please tell me what to say—or what not to say.—BIDI.

-:-

Dear Bidi: Tell Jack he should do something about his deafness and promptly. If he can't hear you, write it on a piece of paper—but get the word to him somehow.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

City Mishap Damages Trash Truck And Bus

A mishap in downtown East Liverpool Thursday caused minor damage to a bus and a parked trash collection truck, police reported.

The mishap on Market St. involved an Inter - City Transit Co. bus driven by Robert W. Young, 20, of R. D. 1 and a parked truck of the Columbiana County Refuse Disposal Co. operated by James J. White, 39, of the Y. & O. Rd., Glenmoor, officers said.

The mishap damaged a hinge on the rear door of the refuse truck and scraped the right side of the bus, officers said. Young told police he was turning right off E. 5th St. to Market St. Seeking to avoid a collision with a car on his left, he cut his wheels a little too sharply and scraped the hinge on the truck, he said.

Body Of Ohio Man Found In Wreckage

Sheriff Louis Allstot identified the body as that of Kenneth Kelly, 54, of Washington Court House, Ohio.

Allstot said the description of the man fitted one given him by Reuben Abbott of Fort Orange, Fla., who was injured in the wreck. Abbott said he and Kelly were transients riding in a box car.

White Instructors Defy College's Eviction Order

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Thirteen white summer instructors remained in their campus apartments today after defying an eviction order from the president of Bishop College, a predominantly Negro institution.

In dismissing the 13 from the faculty, Dr. Milton K. Curry Jr. told them to vacate their apartments by 6 p.m. and to be off the campus by 7:30 p.m. Thursday. He said he fired them for "stirring up the students."

The instructors appeared in front of the modernistic two-story apartment building as both deadlines rolled past. Then Walter Johnson, the college business manager, said the instructors would be allowed to remain in the apartments until Saturday, when their contracts would have expired.

The instructors are graduate students, aged 22 to 30, from Northern and Eastern colleges who are teaching 10-week remedial English and math courses to high school graduates planning to enter Bishop.

The dismissals came after the instructors staged a campus demonstration against what some of the teachers termed suppression of a school newspaper by the administration, intimidation of students and excessive bookstore charges.

"It was simply a matter of who is running the college," Dr. Curry, a Negro, said. "The instructors were warned after an earlier demonstration. They seem to have the idea that they came down here for a social revolution."

"The protest came from the instructors and not the students themselves," Dr. Curry said. "This was shown when 159 students at the end of the course signed advance applications for admission to Bishop this September."

Tinkerbelle Goes To London; Manrys Remain In Cornwall

LONDON (AP) — The Tinkerbelle came to London today but Robert Manry and his family stayed in Cornwall for a few more days.

The 13½-foot sailboat in which the Cleveland, Ohio, newsman crossed the Atlantic in 78 days went on display in the window of the Daily Mirror, one of Britain's largest newspapers.

Manry's wife, Virginia, persuaded her 47-year-old husband to linger in Cornwall and see the landmarks associated with King Arthur. With them are their daughter Robin, 14, and son Douglas, 11.

Manry's family came to England by plane as he was completing his solo voyage from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England.

The Manrys plan to come to London next week, spend a few days in the capital, and then sail for home on the liner Queen Mary on Aug. 26. The Tinkerbelle will go with them.

Manry said Thursday night he was almost run down by a Soviet freighter when he was about 500 miles from England.

"It came right at me and I thought it would run me down," he said. "It's the most dangerous thing that happened."

He said he managed to survive the wash of the ship but that no one aboard acknowledged they had seen him.

Pastor Strikes Back At Seven Of Congregation

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Rev. Fred W. Shuttlesworth has retaliated against seven members of his congregation by seeking a court order preventing them from interferring with church business.

Shuttlesworth is pastor of the Revelation Baptist Church and has been restrained in another court order from spending any of the church's funds.

A civil rights leader, Shuttlesworth is secretary of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Shuttlesworth was granted his temporary restraining order Thursday to prevent the seven members from interferring with services next Sunday. It also prevents the seven from threatening the pastor and from calling a meeting of church trustees.

The order against Shuttlesworth was issued Wednesday, and charges he has withdrawn church funds for unauthorized expenditures.

Both restraining orders were issued by Common Pleas Court Judge Frank M. Gusweiler.

Tinkerbelle Goes To London; Manrys Remain In Cornwall

LONDON (AP) — The Tinkerbelle came to London today but Robert Manry and his family stayed in Cornwall for a few more days.

The 13½-foot sailboat in which the Cleveland, Ohio, newsman crossed the Atlantic in 78 days went on display in the window of the Daily Mirror, one of Britain's largest newspapers.

Manry's wife, Virginia, persuaded her 47-year-old husband to linger in Cornwall and see the landmarks associated with King Arthur. With them are their daughter Robin, 14, and son Douglas, 11.

Manry's family came to England by plane as he was completing his solo voyage from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England.

The Manrys plan to come to London next week, spend a few days in the capital, and then sail for home on the liner Queen Mary on Aug. 26. The Tinkerbelle will go with them.

Manry said Thursday night he was almost run down by a Soviet freighter when he was about 500 miles from England.

"It came right at me and I thought it would run me down," he said. "It's the most dangerous thing that happened."

He said he managed to survive the wash of the ship but that no one aboard acknowledged they had seen him.

Pastor Strikes Back At Seven Of Congregation

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Rev. Fred W. Shuttlesworth has retaliated against seven members of his congregation by seeking a court order preventing them from interferring with church business.

Shuttlesworth is pastor of the Revelation Baptist Church and has been restrained in another court order from spending any of the church's funds.

A civil rights leader, Shuttlesworth is secretary of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Shuttlesworth was granted his temporary restraining order Thursday to prevent the seven members from interferring with services next Sunday. It also prevents the seven from threatening the pastor and from calling a meeting of church trustees.

The order against Shuttlesworth was issued Wednesday, and charges he has withdrawn church funds for unauthorized expenditures.

Both restraining orders were issued by Common Pleas Court Judge Frank M. Gusweiler.

"I flunked math, English and science, but I got an "A" in demonstrations."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I discourage tarnish on my silverware?

A.—One of the simplest preventives is thorough rinsing after washing. Even the slightest tinge of soap residue invites tarnishing.

Q.—How can I prevent white nylon from yellowing?

A.—By using bluing when laundering your nylon shirts, blouses, underthings, and the like.

Q.—What can I do about delicate fabrics that can't take too well to ordinary starching?

A.—In this case, dissolve granulated sugar in water, and use this instead of the usual starch.

Q.—How can I remove the shine from dark suits?

A.—You can often deal with this simply by rubbing over the fabric lightly with very fine sandpaper. Dampen a navy skirt or pair of trousers with bluing water, and press while still damp. Shiny suits may also be sponged with vinegar before pressing.

Q.—Is there any home method I can use to remedy some expensive crystal goblets that have become chipped at the edges?

A.—None that I know of. Your best bet is to take them to a good glazier for professional treatment.

Q.—Have you any suggestions for anchoring my door mat and preventing its being constantly shifted and kicked all over the porch?

A.—Here's one idea: Using a couple of large battery clips, obtainable at any hardware store, attach the hole at one end of these clips by means of screw eyes to the side of the door sill, then use the clamp end of the clip for securing your door mat.

Junior Editors Quiz on STATUES OF CHRIST

QUESTION: Why is a huge statue in South America called both Christ the Redeemer and Christ of the Andes?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: These names refer to two statues rather than one. Christ the Redeemer is an enormouse figure made of concrete, set on Hunchback Mountain, 2,310 feet above the city of Rio de Janeiro in Brazil. Done in a simplified, modern style, the great figure, with arms outstretched, seems to offer hope and comfort to the city far below. At night, illuminated by floodlights, the effect is of a white cross against the sky.

Christ of the Andes is situated on the western side of South America, far away from Rio de Janeiro, which is on the east coast. This statue has a more realistic appearance. It is cast in bronze. It stands on a high mountain pass between the countries of Argentina and Chile, at 12,000 feet above the level of the sea. The particular meaning of this statue is that it symbolizes peace between the nations of Chile and Argentina. For many long years, these two countries disputed over certain boundary rights. The argument became so bitter that it seemed as if war would be the result. In 1902, however, greatly to the relief of the citizens of both sides, a settlement was reached. The nations then decided to erect a statue which would be a token of perpetual friendly relationship, and so Christ of the Andes was dedicated on March 13, 1904.

FOR YOU TO DO: Find the two locations on a map of South America. It will be easy to discover Rio de Janeiro on the east coast, more difficult to pinpoint the location of Christ of the Andes. Look for the border between Chile and Argentina, and see if you can find Upsallata Pass, which is the high point where the statue stands. 8-20

Done in a simplified, modern style, the great figure, with arms outstretched, seems to offer hope and comfort to the city far below. At night, illuminated by floodlights, the effect is of a white cross against the sky.

Christ of the Andes is situated on the western side of South America, far away from Rio de Janeiro, which is on the east coast. This statue has a more realistic appearance. It is cast in bronze. It stands on a high mountain pass between the countries of Argentina and Chile, at 12,000 feet above the level of the sea. The particular meaning of this statue is that it symbolizes peace between the nations of Chile and Argentina. For many long years, these two countries disputed over certain boundary rights. The argument became so bitter that it seemed as if war would be the result. In 1902, however, greatly to the relief of the citizens of both sides, a settlement was reached. The nations then decided to erect a statue which would be a token of perpetual friendly relationship, and so Christ of the Andes was dedicated on March 13, 1904.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Find the two locations on a map of South America. It will be easy to discover Rio de Janeiro on the east coast, more difficult to pinpoint the location of Christ of the Andes. Look for the border between Chile and Argentina, and see if you can find Upsallata Pass, which is the high point where the statue stands. 8-20

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I discourage tarnish on my silverware?

A.—One of the simplest preventives is thorough rinsing after washing. Even the slightest tinge of soap residue invites tarnishing.

Q.—How can I prevent white nylon from yellowing?

A.—By using bluing when laundering your nylon shirts, blouses, underthings, and the like.

Q.—What can I do about delicate fabrics that can't take too well to ordinary starching?

A.—In this case, dissolve granulated sugar in water, and use this instead of the usual starch.

Q.—How can I remove the shine from dark suits?

A.—You can often deal with this simply by rubbing over the fabric lightly with very fine sandpaper. Dampen a navy skirt or pair of trousers with bluing water, and press while still damp. Shiny suits may also be sponged with vinegar before pressing.

Q.—Is there any home method I can use to remedy some expensive crystal goblets that have become chipped at the edges?

A.—None that I know of. Your best bet is to take them to a good glazier for professional treatment.

Q.—Have you any suggestions for anchoring my door mat and preventing its being constantly shifted and kicked all over the porch?

A.—Here's one idea: Using a couple of large battery clips, obtainable at any hardware store, attach the hole at one end of these clips by means of screw eyes to the side of the door sill, then use the clamp end of the clip for securing your door mat.

The Danger Of TV's Making The News

The dangers of reporting events over live television have been emphasized dramatically for Los Angeles citizens by the Watts riot. This is not a reference to the dangers faced by TV cameramen and reporters risking life and limb to bring this frightening tragedy into our living rooms. Praise for such heroics is well deserved. A much deeper danger was the effect such live TV coverage had on millions of Los Angeles viewers and also those being viewed as they turned a part of the city into a no-man's land.

INSTANTANEOUS transmission as afforded TV viewers by Los Angeles Channel 5's helicopter was graphically exciting and could be categorized as a public service. It showed the area affected, the extent of the danger as demonstrated by the arson and looting and gunfire and hence served vivid notice to the curious who might have considered driving into the area.

Unfortunately, the TV coverage (and some of the radio reporting) frequently heightened the hysteria with inflammatory commentary and unconfirmed reports.

A reporter with camera and microphone automatically, it seems, is turned into a participant whenever he covers fast-breaking news stories charged with excitement and uncertanty.

HE DOESN'T HAVE the cooling-off period enjoyed by the newspaper reporter, who either phones his information to a seasoned rewrite man on a desk or himself sits before a typewriter some time later to do an "overnight" story while soberly reflecting over what he has witnessed.

Reporter - cameraman Larry Scheer and copter pilot Harold Morby should have remained content to call things only as they saw them with the home audience from their KTLA helicopter.

Most of the time they did just this. But there were other times when Scheer got carried away with what he saw and repetitiously harangued his audience into a pitch of excitement almost unbearable. Another Los Angeles channel (KTTV) scored some of its riot film with "chase" music.

-:-

"THERE'S A REPORT that one or two policemen are surrounded, so we're going up that way for a look," Scheer said once on Saturday afternoon.

It was only a matter of a minute or two before Scheer and Morby were able to prove no such thing was taking place, but how much better it would have been had they not repeated the rumor, transmitted from their station, before investigating.

Several stations immediately rushed to the air with the rumor of the Shrine Auditorium burning. This, too, soon was denied, but how many people must have panicked before it was, and had they already dashed from their homes to warn a neighbor or buy a gun?

BEING participants themselves as well as personalities usually recognized and trusted by their viewers, TV reporters bear a tremendous obligation with their power. Even an actor was able via radio many years ago to panic most of the populace in New Jersey into believing Martians were landing in their area.

A riot is an ugly thing, and in the case of the one in Watts some may think it was impossible to exaggerate what happened those first four days. Nevertheless, constant repetition (until seven fires seem like 70 to the excited TV viewer) and a series of unconfirmed rumors can distort a situation, at least temporarily, to a point where TV is making as much news as it is reporting.

No one can take anything away from TV and its superb technical ability for bringing us news events, but we can ask that station managements constantly impress upon their newsmen the absolute necessity for unemotional and objective appraisal of what they are covering.
